APPENDIX I

STATEMENT OF THE HONORABLE PAT MCCARRAN IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES, APRIL 25, 1949, Upon the Introduction of S. 1694.

Mr. President, during the course of the last year and a half, a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary has been engaged in a comprehensive study of our entire immigration system. One facet of this study is an investigation of the entrance of subversives into this country. There is in the custody of the subcommittee evidence, which establishes beyond a reasonable doubt, that there is extensive subversive activity being carried on in this country under the active direction and leadership of agents of foreign countries. This evidence is extensive, conclusive, and alarming. These agents supply the lifeblood for subversive activity in this country.

Although our present immigration laws provide for the exclusion and deportation of certain types of dangerous and subversive aliens, through the years these provisions have been made subject to a number of exceptions and provisos which have opened a backdoor for the admission into the United States of agents of foreign powers who enjoy a practical immunity from our laws. The administration of the legal mandates has frequently been lax and indecisive. By default, additional avenues of entry have been provided for otherwise excludable aliens.

This situation has been vastly complicated by the growth of numerous international organizations and commissions with headquarters or offices in this country and the resultant groups of aliens that have been permitted to enter the United States.

the United States.

Our entire immigration system has been weakened to make it often impossible for our country to protect its security in this black era of fifth-column infiltration and cold warfare with the ruthless masters of the Kremlin.

We must make adequate provision to protect ourselves. We must bring our immigration system into line with the realities of Communist tactics.

The time has long since passed when we can afford to open our borders indiscriminately, to give unstituting hospitality to any person whose purpose, whose ideologic goal, is to overthrow our institutions and replace them with the evil oppression of totalitarianism.

We can no longer entertain with lavish hospitality or with amused indifference the sworn enemies of the United States.

I have today introduced a bill to revise our immigration laws in such a way as to place in the hands of the Government adequate powers to cope with the fifth-column tactics of international communism. The purpose of this bill is to plug the loopholes of the present law so that any alien—and I emphasize the word "any"—who engages in espionage or other subversive activity must be excluded or deported.

Lef me emphasize in the beginning that this legislation will not in any way curb the legitimate activities of anyone, whether he be an immigrant, a visitor, a diplomat, or a delegate to an international organization.

This bill has only one purpose: To protect the people of the United States from any alien who abuses the traditional American hospitality by working for the overthrow of our Government. And, Mr. President, I mean any alien.

My bill is designed to sever the international lifeline which is feeding the Communist conspiracy in this country.

There is no obligation upon the United States—or for that matter upon any other nation—to harbor within its borders aliens who are working for its destruction. The duty to protect itself—the obligation to defend itself—against alien subversion is the fundamental responsibility of every government. We cannot continue to abdicate this duty.

Mr. President, I want to impress the members of the Senate with the earnestness with which I propose this measure. My proposal is based on a careful consideration of evidence now in the possession of the subcommittee. We have found glaring loopholes in our immigration system, complicated by the laxness with which the existing exclusion and deportation provisions have been enforced. The cold fact is that agents of international communism move freely across our borders to engage in espionage, sabotage, anti-American propaganda, and subversive activities; to plot with almost complete impunity the destruction of our free institutions.

The threat which we must eliminate—and I am convinced that this bill will eliminate-consists of five distinct problems.

1. The Communist International has in its employ a network of agents whose sole function is to organize and promote Communist activity, sabotage, espionage, propaganda, and terrorism. These agents are sent into the United States and other countries as the policy of the Stalinist high command dictates. Although some of these persons are native-born or have acquired citizenship through naturalization, a substantial number of them are aliens. Under my bill these people would have to be excluded from admission, or deported if found in the United States.

2. Occasionally aliens who come to this country as immigrants do not leave behind them their loyalties to foreign governments and foreign ideologies. Some of them engage in subversive activity, organize or join Communist organizations, or engage in propaganda activities among their neighbors. Under my bill these people would have to be deported.

3. Agents of communism have used the customary courtesy extended by the United States to representatives of foreign governments, including diplomats, consuls, and other representatives, as a screen behind which to engage in espionage and other activities designed to overthrow our Nation by force and violence. Under my bill these people would have to be excluded from admission or deported if found in the United States.

4. Since the establishment of international organizations in this country, Communist agents have used them as a facade behind which to operate and to carry on anti-American activity. The evidence in the files of the subcommittee shows conclusively that many representatives and staff members of international organizations are engaging in subversive activities beyond the scope of their legal duties.

Under my bill these people would have to be deported.

5. We have for many years extended the privilege to certain foreign governments to establish in this country missions, such as trading commissions and news agencies. Some of these, too, have been integrated into the international Communist espionage-sabotage-subversion network. They have expended vast sums of money for propaganda and intelligence work and have frequently supported Communist enterprises by direct contributions. Under my bill these people would have to be deported.

We are faced by the most tightly organized, the most extensive international conspiracy that this world has ever seen, and may God grant, shall ever see.

That the Soviet Union actively engages in preparations for the communization of the United States and the rest of the world is no longer a question of doubt. The articles of the Comintern, the basic creed of the Communist Party, the utterances of Soviet leaders, the activities of the Communist parties everywhere; in fact, the foreign policies of the U. S. S. R. are directed at destruction of the United States as the one powerful barrier to conquest of the great globe itself.

The Moscow imperialists have never tried to conceal their hopes for world revolution and world conquest. The very philosophy of Karl Marx speaks of an inevitable destruction of existing states and their replacement by a Communist society. The plan for world revolution has been openly expressed by the leaders of Soviet Russia. The fundamental line of the Soviets was laid down in the clearest terms by Lenin in his declaration:

"We are living not merely in a state but in a system of states, and the existence of the Soviet Republics side by side with imperialist states for a long time is unthinkable. One or the other must triumph in the end. And before this end supervenes, a series of frightful collisions between the Soviet Republic and the bourgeois states will be inevitable."

The Communist International has itself made public declaration of the Soviet ambitions to subject the entire world to the Red system of oppression. The Sixth World Congress proclaimed openly that "the ultimate aim of the Communist International is to replace world capitalist economy by a world system of communism."

The program adopted by the Sixth Congress of the Communist International in 1928, states clearly the revolutionary objectives of the Soviet Union within the borders of other nations:

"The successful struggle of the Communist International for the dictatorship of the proletariat presupposes the existence in every country of a compact Communist Party, hardened in the struggle, disciplined, centralized, and closely linked up with the masses.

"The party is the vanguard of the working class and consists of the best, most class-conscious, most active, and most courageous members of that class. It incorporates the whole body of experience of the proletarian struggle. Basing itself upon the revolutionary theory of Marxism and representing the general and lasting interests of the whole of the working class, the party personifies the unity of proletarian principles, of proletarian will and of proletarian revolutionary action. It is a revolutionary organization, bound by iron discipline and strict revolutionary rules of democratic centralism, which can be carried out thanks to the class-consciousness of the proletarian vanguard, to its loyalty to the revolution, its ability to maintain inseparable ties with the proletarian masses and to its correct political leadership, which is constantly verified by the experiences of the masses themselves."

Centralized control from Moscow of the international network of communism requires the establishment of a vast spider web of communication. It is of prime importance that the Kremlin shall be in a position at all times to communicate instructions to its partisans, to call them to task for blunders; to receive in turn intelligence reports, and to provide for the training and entry of agents provocateurs.

To this end, the Soviet Union has created an international organization without equal and without rival in history. The falsification of passports and identities, the disguises behind which trained operatives of communism move have been developed to an exacting science which has successfully penetrated the vigilance of all nations of the earth.

Nearly every person sent from the Soviet Union or its satellites is or becomes an agent of Soviet espionage and sabotage. He is assigned a task to fulfill and his complete compliance is generally assured by threats against his person and his family and by the ubiquitous terror of the secret police. In testimony before the Un-American Activities Committee, Victor Kravchenko affirmed that—"I must state in general that no person holding an important position in connection with the economic, political, or military organizations and arriving in the United States from the Soviet Union arrives without a special assignment as to the collection of secret information."

Lenin confessed that in its endeavors the Soviet Union would not be governed either by ethics or morality. In the drive to communize the world, he wrote in the Infantile Sickness of Leftism in Communism: "It is necessary * * * to use any ruse, cunning, unlawful method, evasion, concealment of truth."

The violations of American integrity, sovereignty, and friendship have increased in vigor and scope. Since the termination of the late war, the temporary wartime mask of Allied friendship has been dropped by the Soviet Government and its efforts to undermine our institutions have become a matter of common knowledge.

Soviet agents and contact men have found cover behind every iron-curtain mission, private or public, in the United States. Special representatives of the Kremlin have found the friendly attitude of this country a haven within which they are able to move to their destinations and indulge in their nefarious tasks unhampered.

Since the end of the war, the Soviet Union has found a new and infinitely superior channel through which it can introduce its agents into the United States. The constellation of international agencies established in this country provides a means of transit from the Soviet Union and its satellite countries unhampered by the usual, if limited, restrictions placed upon private persons and diplomatic officials.

The results of the war have placed the U. S. S. R. in a position to take complete advantage of the facilities afforded by international bodies. The collection of satellite nations behind the iron curtain offer fertile fields for the recruitment of agents and for their importation into the United States.

The cold fact is that every person officially assigned to an international organization by any country subject to Communist domination is an agent of international communism.

The real function of iron-curtain functionaries in this country is no longer a matter of speculation. The evidence which the subcommittee has obtained, part of which will be made public in due time, leaves no doubt on this score. Right here, may I say that some of our information cannot be publicly disclosed for security reasons and because we must protect our sources of information. I assure the Senate, however, that in due time every word which I am uttering will be amply substantiated by cold, hard facts.

We have obtained the text of the oral instructions which iron-curtain officials coming to the United States are given by their Communist masters. Let me read to you a portion of these instructions which are typical of the orders under which Communist representatives in this country operate. This text was prepared by former diplomats and representatives, whose knowledge is based on personal experience.1

"We need to incite discontent, uneasiness in the capitalistic and bourgeois states. The greater is the discontent in each capitalist and bourgeois country, the ground for communism is more fertile. * * * Already now we have to revolutionize European and Asiatic continents. Strikes, revolutionary impetus of the trade-unions and labor, the weakening of capitalism through the demands of high wages so that they are not able to compete with the Soviet Union, the obstruction of different reactionary governments in their anti-Communist policy, the incitement for nationalism everywhere, the hatred against the colonial empires, the uprising of trade-unions against their governments, the various help to the Communist Party in the capitalist country, propagandizing the hatred against the reactionary in every country, particularly developing in the United States the impression that the economic depression must be inevitable."

Much of the evidence of the conspiracy against us is already a matter of public record. The hundreds of Communists and Communist controlled organizations which have sprung up like poisonous weeds bear dramatic evidence that infiltration of un-American ideology has been eminently successful. I need only to recall names like Gernart Eisler, Harry Bridges, George Pirinsky, Ferdinand Smith, and Hanns Eisler to prove that much of the work of the Communist or ganization has been done by aliens in this country.

The arrest of Valentin Gubichev, an employee of an international organization, for espionage has brought to public attention the fact that Soviet Russia is using international organizations as a front for the importation of espionage agents. There are other cases of this nature, some of which will be revealed by the subcommittee.

We know further that organizations such as Amtorg, the Soviet trading agency, Tass, the Soviet news agency, Tanyug, the Yugoslav news agency, and similar organizations planted in this country by iron-curtain countries, are engaging in propaganda and other forms of subversive activity. This information, too, will be made public by the subcommittee.

Mr. President, I know what an outcry will be raised against this bill by the subversive propaganda machine. Tomorrow, the Communist press and the coterie of fellow travelers will whip themselves into a frenzy of self-righteousness. They will shout themselves hoarse crying "Red baiting!" "Hysteria!" "Police state!"

Let me, therefore, make this one point abundantly clear. This bill is not the result of hysteria; this bill is not intended to provide a platform for red baiting. This bill is a sober, carefully considered proposal to protect the security of the United States of America from an enemy whom we have permitted to infiltrate our shores.

Mr. President, there is nothing really novel or unusual about this bill. Much of the language used, and two of its three principal provisions are in substance the law of the land, both in the Espionage Act, and the Foreign Agents Registration Act. The bill merely extends application of deportation and exclusion provisions to all aliens, in order to meet changing conditions, including those created by the establishment of international organizations. The reluctance of the State Department and other agencies of the Government to adequately enforce even the existing statutes on subversive activity has created a no-man's land within which Communist agents are building a system of ideological fortifications for the expected assault against the United States.

Mr. President, I have also written into this bill adequate safeguards to protect the innocent from prosecution, to safeguard the rights of aliens in the ¹ See testimony of Bogdan Raditsa, p. 45.

United States who may have unwittingly become associated with one of the hundreds of Communist fronts which have been organized in this country. Many of these associations have masqueraded behind the facade of charitable or welfare organizations. They have cloaked themselves in high-sounding phrases to attract and deceive the American public.

Let me here emphasize that the major responsibilities, powers, and functions of this bill have been placed in the hands of the Attorney General, because he is the principal law-enforcement officer in the United States and because it is his Department which is responsible for our internal security.

There is no obligation upon us under international law or custom to harbor or to afford protection to aliens who use the freedom extended to them for subversive purposes.

The argument will be raised that we cannot protect ourselves from alien agents, because it might upset our relations with other countries or because it would result in restrictions placed upon our diplomats abroad.

Mr. President, I find it difficult to provide a rational answer for such irrational arguments. If our foreign relations with any nation depend upon the entry of spies, of saboteurs, of an assortment of subversive agents, then I say the time has come that such relations be terminated. If we must pay tribute in the form of allowing aliens to subvert our form of government as a condition to temporary good will, we would be better off without it.

As for restrictions on our representatives in iron curtain countries, I need not point out that they are already surrounded by the secret police, limited in their movements and harassed in their activities to such an extent that any further restriction would not be possible. We can certainly derive no gain from a relationship in which we permit a foreign government to import a dozen active agents for each isolated representative that we send abroad.

The time has come for the Congress to face this issue squarely. We have always been a tolerant people. We have leaned backward to extend every courtesy and every privilege to anyone who came to this country. We have thereby exposed ourselves to subversion and injury. The struggle in which we are engaged is the fight for the survival of democratic government on this globe.

We cannot let that fight go by default.

B. SUPPLEMENTAL LIST OF SUBVERSIVE ORGANIZATIONS DESIGNATED BY THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF APRIL 21, 1949 1

¹ The letter of the Attorney General transmitting this supplemental list to the Loyalty

Review Board contains the following statements:

"As stated in my letter of November 24, the organizations heretofore named do not represent a complete or final tabulation. The study of Investigative reports of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is a continuing one. The organizations named herein as coming within the scope of Executive Order 9835 are designated as a result of the same careful review of recommendations made by officials of this Department which has been outlined to you previously.

"The organizations designated below are classified in accordance with the categories set forth in sec. 3, pt. III, of Executive Order 9835. As in the case of organizations previously submitted, the designation is predicated upon the dominant characteristics of each. It must be borne in mind, of course, that while an organization may fall within more than one of the specified categories, it is necessary for the purposes of the Executive order to segregate them on the basis of dominant characteristics."

1. The Military Attaché at the Polish Embassy in Washington is under the Ambassador of Poland in matters of representation and political appearances.

2. The Military Attaché directs the over-all activities in the sphere of military representation in the United States. Through his first deputy, he makes preparations for establishing contact with Canada, Argentina, and Brazil—where Military Attachés will be assigned.

3. The Military Attaché resolves any difficulties [which may hinder] direct communications between Attaché's offices of specific North and South American countries and Poland.

4. Through his first deputy, the Military Attaché accomplishes the following tasks:

Controls the work of the Military Attaché in Mexico;

supplies that office with required materials from the homeland; collects and transmits the co-respondence of that flice.

5. All diplomatic personnel assigned to North and South America will travel through Washington when reporting to their posts. The Attaché himself will establish contact with the Military Attaché assigned to these missions. Through his deputy—

He will give tactical instructions to the respective attachés, based on experience gained in the preparatory work done in these countries prior to setting up the offices of the Attachés;

he will decide on the method of controlling the work; he will decide on the method of correspondence.

actionary organizations, to determine their connections with similar circles in London, to ascertain their links with Poland, such as means of assigning agents and saboteurs.

2. Through the aid of people devoted to the democratic idea, to maintain contact with Polish democratic organizations, to support their struggle against reaction, aiming at creating a democratic bloc of all those of Polish origin in the United States. Information and propaganda activity should unmask the policy of the emigrant clique, in whose hands the Poles of the United States are objects of a political game against the Government of National Unity. Of special importance in winning over the Poles of the United States to our side is the commemoration of Tadeusz Kosciuszko. The 200th anniversary of the birth of the Polish and American hero occurs this year.

3. To observe the activity of such Polish organizations as the P. C. K.1 and various welfare funds. To define their relationship to Poland and to emigrant circles. To what end and by what means funds are distributed.

4. To ascertain the intentions of the international organizations—UNRRA and YMCA-in relation to Poland.

5. To ascertain the relationship of the United States and various political groups to Polish organizations, democratic and reactionary. The degree and form of support given by them to Polish reactionary activities.

6. The connection of Polish reactionary organizations in the United States

7. To define and observe the relationship of American capital to the Polish

8. To arouse the public opinion of Americans and Poles of the United States against appeasement by American occupation authorities in Germany. A large percentage of the authorities are former German emigrants. Under their cover, the German press in the American Zone of Occupation is conducting a definite anti-Polish campaign.

9. Taking as a basis the note of the Polish Government of February 14, 1946, to conduct a campaign against the creation by American authorities of Polish guard companies or other Polish military units. Specifically it should be stressed that it is inadmissible that anyone in these units should wear insignia and merit badge distinctions of the Polish Army.

10. To secure the receipt of confidential political publications, especially those published by the Polish colony in the United States.

With the aim of obtaining information relative to the above matters, to organize a suitable information network among emigrant groups and in the offices of Polish organizations. In the first place, the following democratic organizations should be exploited:

(a) Polish American Labor Council, whose president, Leo Krzycki, is a member of the Socialist Party;

(b) Polonia Society, affiliated with the International Workers Order, president, Boleslaw Gebert;

(c) "Kosciuszko League," with headquarters in Detroit, Michigan;

(d) American Slav Congress.

The above-mentioned organizations do not exhaust the list of democratic organizations which conform loyally to the Government of National Unity.4 In order to become fully enlightened on the activities of emigrant-reactionary circles, it is necessary to have our own informers in organizations such as—
(a) Polish National Alliance, which has contact with "Sanacja" ⁵ reactionary elements in Poland,

(b) Polish Roman Catholic Union.

⁴ This designation was applied to the Communist-dominated postwar coalition government of Poland. ⁵ Followers of Marshal Jozef Pilsudski.

(c) Other organizations which profit from the support of the influential segments of the Polish colony in America.

In order to infiltrate influential American societies and to interest specific groups in the Polish problem, it is necessary to exploit all oppositional elements in relation to the present President. To obtain extensive information, the Attaché will organize a network of "residents," on whom he will place the responsibility of selecting agents. The Military Attaché does not come in direct contact with the agents.

FORMATION OF RESIDENCIES

In setting up information networks, it is important to observe that they be composed of separate residencies, not connected with one another, and that each has his own informants. Special attention should be paid to the selection of residents and to the organization of an apparatus that will be mobile, operational, and have the possibility of supplying pertinent information, in accordance with the requirements.

The details of organizing information posts should be delegated to the residents. There should be a minimum number of residencies and the information network should not be extended at the expense of the number of informers. Overextension of the information network may indicate its origin, may cause superfluous immobility, and ultimately facilitate its discovery.

For intelligence work, only people in high places with wide social connections, in a position to deliver intelligence material, should be engaged.

The selection of a resident should be preceded by a thorough and extensive investigation of his activities, social standing, political convictions, as well as the positive and negative traits of his character.

Investigation of the individual may be carried out as follows:

(a) by personal observation in the course of service contacts and in casual social meetings,

(b) by study of his reputation and his political activities.

The creation of residencies should be accomplished in relationship with the prescribed aims and previously established requirements.

One should not engage for intelligence work people whom one meets casually and does not investigate properly.

Haste in recruiting may lead to unfortunate results. It should be remembered that successful intelligence work depends on the proper selection of cadres.

ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMUNICATION SYSTEM

1. Within the residencies (outposts).—Communications within the residencies are maintained only from the top down. Each member of a residency knows only his immediate superior and the individual with whom he has contacts in his work (liaison man, administrator of underground local), depending on conditions.

Horizontal communications between various informers or members of residencies are forbidden. The resident directs the work of his post through-personal instructions, liaison men,

post-office box.

Selection of the method of maintaining contacts in each individual case will depend on the character of the agent and local conditions.

Unless professional or friendship ties exist, frequent contacts between residents and informants should be avoided.

2. Contacts of the Military Attaché with residents.—The Military Attaché directs the work of the residents by personal contact or through trusted persons. The other members of the residency should not know their "boss" (Attaché).

The Military Attaché should avoid frequent meetings with the residents in public places and on occasions which have nothing to do with the official appearances of the Military Attaché. Meetings in places at which the Military Attaché does not appear on official business should be delegated to trusted persons after working out details of the meeting beforehand. Special care must be taken in the selection of the place for the meeting and in determining the password. The meeting should be adapted to local conditions. Rash meetings, not carefully prepared, must not be permitted.

CONSPIRACY OF WORK

The diplomatic passport and conditions surrounding the official presence of the Military Attaché facilitate in part the conduct of the intelligence work and create a certain "cover" for unofficial intelligence activity. Nevertheless, it should be remembered that the Attaché will find himself under the constant and close observation of the counterintelligence and of the reactionary circles of the Polish emigration (former agency of the London Government). For this reason, the Attaché should control his activity in accordance with intelligence instructions. Persons who are not associated with the intelligence work should have no knowledge of the work, either directly or indirectly.

Special attention should be paid to the recruitment of people for intelligence service. The final hiring should be delayed, i. e., until after a thorough examination of the given individual and trial period, during which he should receive unrelated assignments, devoid of intelligence significance.

Experience shows that some of our official representatives organized intelligence work carelessly and did not give enough serious thought to the problem of recruiting, arranging meetings, etc. Disclosures of their activities were made in the presence of the Embassy staff members who had nothing in common with our work and the result of such activity came to the knowledge of undesirable

Such a worker becomes compromised and should leave his diplomatic post. The Attaché should, therefore, approach his activity from the conspiratorial point of view, and on this premise must work out his plan of action. He must constantly supervise and control the activities of those to whom he assigned the execution of operational tasks. Only constant vigilance in connection with his own activities and the constant check of his subordinates will enable the Military Attaché to perform good intelligence work without compromising himself.

1. Subject: Bor Komorowski's 2 stay in the United States.

As a result of the first concrete information concerning Bor's stay in the United States, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs addressed to the Embassy of the United States a sharp protest against the conduct of those United States officials who seem more and more inclined to give an official character to this visit. So Waclaw Komar, head of Polish Military Intelligence.

 General Tadeusz Bor-Komorowski was the leader of the wartime democratic underground army in Poland.

far, the Government of the United States has neither reacted to our note nor caused its officials to change their attitude towards Bor. That Bor is still treated as a "Chief Leader" and official representative of an unrecognized and unrepresented group of emigrants is proved among other things, by the fact that he was received by General Eisenhower, to say nothing about all his activities conducted with the support of the Polish National Alliance between May 3 and the present time.

On the basis of other data, I conclude that the military group of emigrants also aims at establishing a reputation and gaining recognition for its intentions in some South American countries.

The general aim of the Bor action appears to be the desire to maintain intact military units immune from interference and observation by the homeland—as well as to maintain a dynamic center of reaction.

The above action has not thus far encountered any serious difficulties. On the contrary, the intervention of Senator Thomas, Chairman of the Senate Military Committee, confirms that the question of the taking over by the American Command of Polish units in Western Europe may become a reality. We must oppose this action with utmost energy. The following means to counteract are at the disposal of the General:

(a) To request clarification and explanation from the War Department of the status in which the highest above-mentioned military officials receive Bor, and to request information as to what official conversations were conducted with Bor and the extent to which the War Department is engaged in Bor's plan of handing over units of the Polish Armed Forces to the American Command. Such a request is completely justified if one takes into consideration that this matter pertains to Poles who are serving in Polish units, and of whom a large percentage are of draft age.

(b) To establish direct and indirect contacts with those members of the Congress and Senate who are opposed to the idea of taking the Polish units under the American Command, supporting and encouraging them in their actions in this matter.

(c) In cooperation with the Press Attaché of the Embussy, to publish articles in the Polish-American press describing Bor in a true light on the basis of the Warsaw Uprising.

Activities of NSZ2 in Poland, and the contacts of the emigré military command with them.

Accomplished breaking up of the unity of the Polish nation.

2. The next problem of basic importance is the matter of an American loan for our government.

Although this is not a matter in your immediate sphere, nevertheless, to the authority of your rank and function, as well as your personal dignity, I ascribe no less importance than to the professional activities of specialists. Therefore, I should like you to add your efforts to the efforts of other persons who are working primarily in that field. Talks on the subject of a loan were recently renewed. In order to have this loan granted and to obtain the best terms, it is necessary to prepare American public opinion properly and, above all, the circles interested in the loan; that is, military, industrial, and financial circles. In this connection, I wish to call attention to the importance of personal activities in the circles concerned. In this action, taking advantage of the cooperation of the Press Attaché, concrete material which is to be found at his disposal should be used.

3. Among matters belonging to the sphere of work of the Military Attaché in the United States, I should like to call attention to the importance of the problems connected with American industry. The problems which are of basic importance for us are specified in the instructions.

4. Enclosed in present mail are two decorations, which please transmit to Major Klonowski.³ These are two crosses granted to two Mexican citizens—Citizen Sylvestre Ortiz and Citizen Nestor Sanhez Fernandes—for their work and service rendered in the Brigade named after J. Dabrowski during the war in Spain. Major Klonowski should decorate both Mexicans on the occasion of the nearest national holiday.

5. Concerning the list of American officers (sent by Colonel Alef 1) proposed by Citizen Kmiecik for Polish decorations, I advise you that this list has already been sent on for consideration and action.

6. An additional aide to work in the office of the Attaché has already been designated and will be at your disposal within a short time. He is Major Kierys, who knows the English language and the United States very well.

7. Colonel Alef addressed a request for the dispatch to the Attaché's office of a set of decorations and medals for propaganda purposes. Since thus far not all decorations have been placed at my disposal, I am awaiting their completion. when I shall mail them.

First of all, I wish to communicate in general what attitude the Marshal 2 took with regard to your two handwritten letters (of June 10 and June 13 of this year) to him.

The Marshal declined to take cognizance of these letters because:

(a) they have the character of private letters;

(b) official business requires the form of official correspondence.

1. The evaluation of the atmosphere and area as difficult factors for you to acquire is completely justified by information on hand and for this reason your intention not to conduct political activity in the beginning was understood here. Having already made contacts, as for example with the Hallerite sqroup, it is necessary that these contacts bear with ever-greater intensity the imprint of political factors.

Such a gradation of approach must be used in every other case.

2. In connection with the above, your plan of visiting Polish centers in several cities in the United States has also gained approval.

In taking such trips, it is worth stressing the fact that Polish emigrants in the United States basically feel close attachment for Poland. This feeling was and is often used to advantage by London agencies now operating in that

3. The plan of expanding the Attaché's Office in Washington by a Naval and Air Attaché's office is being earnestly considered.

The request for a commissioned officer for the Military Attaché has been taken into consideration. On July 14 of this year Major Edward Kierys left Warsaw for Washington via London with the purpose of taking over this position.

1. Social and political problems of the Philippines are treated in your report very superficially.

Material available to us from other sources would indicate rather that the independence of the Philippines, although declared officially on June 28 of the current year by the Government of the United States, is in fact very problematical, if not totally fictitious, which also, in a certain sense, could be interpreted from your report, where you write that the country, essentially rich in natural resources, nevertheless has a population that is poor and hard-working.

As far as the "Guerillas" are concerned, this must be evaluated as a movement for the liberation of a colonial people.

Because we have in a sense conflicting information, we ask you for a deeper and more objective analysis of the situation in that country, with a detailed description of the attitude of the population in general.

2. In the matter of a decoration for Captain Sattgasta of the United States Army, we have communicated with the Ministry of Culture and Art. This Ministry has assigned the matter to the Chief Administration of Museums and Protection of Monuments for positive action.

3. Your appointment as Air Attaché and that of Colonel Alef as Deputy will be sent forward. Also the matter of an air mechanic will be arranged in accordance with your wishes.

4. In answer to the inquiry by Colonel Alef, we advise you that field mail 70603-D was changed to "No. 2697 Brzeg. Slask," and mail may be directed to this address. On the other hand, the unit 31899 is dissolved. If detailed data concerning persons were furnished (surname, name, date, and place of birth, date of mobilization) to whom correspondence of American citizens was addressed, an attempt could be made to find them in Poland and to report their addresses to interested persons in the United States.

Desiderata of the Military Mission for Questions Concerning Peace CONFERENCES FOR POLISH MILITARY OUTPOSTS ABROAD

In connection with the approaching peace conference regarding the peace treaty with Germany and with the necessity of preparing material for the military delegation in Paris, a Military Mission for Questions Concerning Peace Conferences has been created at the headquarters of the Polish Army. Besides material which is available here in Poland, the Mission requires material from abroad, and namely:

(a) Information concerning the views of various statesmen, politicians, and military leaders regarding our western boundaries, stated officially or unofficially (at meetings, in the press or during friendly conversations.)

(b) Remarks on this subject made by party leaders or representatives of political organizations, by scientists, publicists or other persons playing an important role in public life.

(c) Articles or excerpts from the daily and periodical press regarding this same problem.

(d) Books and publications treating of problems of the organizations of Europe after the war, taking Central Europe into consideration in the first place, and chiefly Polish-German relations.

(e) All sources mentioning German propaganda regarding the moving of our western boundary or other problems affecting our future. The question here is mainly that of picking up arguments which the Germans might be able to use before the peace conference in the fight over the boundaries and to gain for themselves the best peace conditions.

(f) Personal observations and feelings established in that area on the basis of private conversations with people having contact with political or military spheres, or in any other manner.

(g) Information and material regarding the attitude of the above-mentioned circles and persons toward the problems of the Polish-Czech boundaries and, in general, regarding the problem of the friendship of nations and the Slav governments.

In view of the importance and urgency of these matters and the necessity of a thorough preparation of the problems from various points of view (military, political-historical, and economic), the Military Mission for Questions Concerning Peace Conferences requests that pains be taken to have the information embrace the greatest possible number of questions on the subject given above and to have it sent in the quickest possible way.

> Military Attaché at the Embassy of the Polish Republic in Washington, Lieutenant General Modelski

Upon evaluation of your reports thus far received, I am obliged to state that they are chaotic and of little value, both from the point of the contents and form.

The method of thematic treatment of the problems touched upon in your reports indicates that you are yielding to the influence of your environment, losing to a considerable degree the feeling of objectivity in the realistic evaluation of the situation and the intentions of American policy.

It would be, from all points of view, desirable for you to observe events, tracking them down to their sources, and then evaluating them in tranquility, dispassionately, from a certain perspective, free from the thinking habits of the greater capitalistic world. Then your material will cast a truer light on the problems which interest us.

Your work should be based on the collection of data and information from all directions, independent of the Polish-American sector, concerning the entire military, economic, and political life of the United States.

Your reports should be characterized by objectivity and should contain pertinent information and reliable data.

I draw your attention to the fact that your primary task is to follow the development of the military life of the United States, observing in the first place trends in training, organization, and armament of units including the Federal National Guard.

To these matters you should direct the attention and the main weight of the work of the office of the Attaché.

Beside this, your trip to the Philippines was completely inappropriate.

In the future, I request that all journeys of a diplomatic representative character be cleared in advance with me.

GENERAL REMARKS

The military, political, and economic situation of the United States is explained subjectively.

One-sided information, often without giving the sources in connection with which the influence of certain well-known, super-capitalist American circles is apparent.

It is necessary to distinguish in the reports between two fundamental parts which are intertwined in the individual documents.

The first part, data and information from the military field; the second, political and political-military generalizations.

In regard to the first part, which introduces the subject most interesting to us, we need information subject to certain basic conditions: it must be objective, systematic, true, concrete, and worked out according to a plan.

Some data and information, as for example, part of that regarding the budget, certain details in the sphere of aviation and others, are useful contributions to studies regarding these problems and were correspondingly used to advantage.

However, it is necessary to state that the greater part of the information received does not meet the above-mentioned conditions.

Our Bureau of Studies found in it many inaccuracies, exaggeration in evaluation, especially regarding the atom bomb, and in the majority of instances, a lack of objectivity.

PARTICULAR REMARKS

In the report of 26-8-46 [26 August 1946] we find information regarding new military inventions in the United States. Also in the report of 5-9-46 [5 September 1946], information is given on page 8 regarding the atom bomb. In this last report we read: "The storm caused by the explosion of the atom bomb, in comparison with a natural land storm reaching hardly 5 miles per hour, reaches a velocity of 30-40 miles per hour (page 1)."

This data disagrees with the factual state, because the velocity of a land storm reaches 32-39-46 miles per hour, not 5 miles per hour (a little wind with a velocity of 4-7 miles per hour is hardly perceivable. See Air Navigation, P. V. H. Weems, Lieutenant Commander, New York, McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc.,

Moreover, a storm caused, as is reported, by the explosion of an atom bomb with a velocity of 30-40 miles per hour is, in turn, not so terrible.

On page 3 of the report, we read: "The explosion of an atom bomb-creates in the center of the explosion a fiery ball scores of hundred feet in diameter. The temperature in the center of this ball reaches millions of degrees C. Scientists evaluate the temperature of this ball generally about 3000° to 9000° C. Igneous waves reached a distance of 13,700 feet."

Aside from the fact that the second sentence of the enclosed paragraph is altogether unintelligible, the following sentence, where mention is made of evaluation of scientists, contradicts the preceding one.

On page 6 of the report of 5-9-46 [5 September 1946] the numerical strength of an infantry division is given as 14,037. It actually is 13,404. Referring to the numerical strength of new infantry divisions, 17,000 is approximately correct, but not accurate. In connection with this, the new strength of infantry divisions is modeled on the English infantry division, with insignificant changes.

In all the reports, especially where there is discussion regarding the strategic and military position of the United States, regarding the preparedness of the armed forces and the atomic weapon, we often meet general and exaggerated statements, concrete data not being given.

For example, in the report of 26-VIII-46 [26 August 1946], on page 4, we read that new research has resulted in the discovery "of the so-called messon particle—infinitely more powerful than the particle released by the atom bomb. It is as if a new monster was created, a super atom bomb; that is, a cosmic bomb, Likewise, the evaluation of the experiment on the Bikini Atoll is exaggerated. It is even known from the world press that the results at Bikini do not give reason for superlatives. In the report of 5-IX-46 [5 September 1946], on page 2, we read: "the terrificness of the strength of the blast (during the explosion of the atom bomb) is actually beyond imagination"; at the same time, the velocity of this blast is described at 30-40 miles per hour. This is an evident exaggeration, when we consider that the velocity of a storm reaches 75 miles per hour and a wind of a velocity of 30-40 miles per hour is described by the above-mentioned Commander Weems as "a moderate gale"! In view of this, all the considerations including in the report regarding the terrible effects of this blast are not convincing.

Military Budget of the U.S.A.

Report of 19-IX-46 [19 September, 1946] (regarding Wallace's letter):

Army and Navy, 13,000 million dollars. Liquidation of military activity, 5,000 mill. doll.

Debts and provision for veterans, 10,000 mill. doll.

Total: 28,000 mill. doll.

Report of October 13, 1946:

Budget for all armed forces 11,383 mill. doll.

Report of October 14, 1946 (Regarding Rex Collier, "The Sunday Star"):

National Defense Budget, 28,000 mill. doll.

Army and Navy, 13,150 mill. doll., including the costs of demobilization and reparations arising from the state of war.

Report of 14 October, 1946 (Regarding the speech of Secretary of War Patterson):

National Defense Budget, 18,500 mill. doll., including Army, 5,000 mill. doll.,

Navy, 3,000 mill. doll.

The budget of government expenses of the U. S. A., according to a report of the National City Bank of New York "Economic Conditions Governmental Finance United States Securities" of September 1946:

А	fill. doll.
War Department	8,060
Navy Department	5, 150
Terminal leave of enlisted personnel	2,418
U. S. Maritime Commission	290
War Shipping Administration
Other (includes UNRRA)	2,178
.
National Defense subtotal	18,508

Veterans' Pensions and benefits_____ In sum, comparing these figures, the Bureau of Studies is confronted with the problem; which data are true? Who is badly informed or wishes to inform badly? Wallace, Collier, Patterson, or someone else.

This problem can be solved by an accurate report on the budget.

The silhouette evaluation of President Truman as a providential man for the U.S.A., having behind him the whole American people, is, in our opinion, false. It is also apparent to us that Truman did not gain in authority after the statements of Wallace, but on the contrary lost much in prestige.

The role of the Labor Unions is erroneously interpreted, and the name "fifth column" will not stand criticism. The statement that the activity of the Labor Unions meets with the decided reaction of "a healthy society" brings up the question as to what part of society you consider healthy.

The information regarding the amendment to the Constitution regarding the length of term of a member of Congress and the amendment of the provisions of the Constitution regarding the possibility of the declaration of offensive war by the U. S. A. requires a plain statement regarding the source of this information. (Report 03/I. M., point 7, of 28-8-46 [28 August 1946].)

If the question is one of the prospect of the breaking out of war between the United States and the U.S.S.R., we are not of the same opinion as expressed in the report of 5-9-46 [5 September 1946], page 7, that "we are on the eve of a possible conflict * * *." It is true that there exist in the West certain influential groups of warmongers which Marshal Stalin has branded in his statements. These groups certainly incite to war, but generally speaking, this is blackmail and proof of fear. In closer perspective, war is not threatening. In the given situation it is necessary to state with great objectivity that the U. S. S. R. does not desire aggression, which is suggested in many of your reports, but just the opposite. It desires to strengthen lasting peace in the world.

In your report of 26-8-46 [26 August 1946], on page 6, you give the opinion of American military men which in our opinion is not entirely humorous, but rather cynical, stating that "one trouble today is the defenselessness, in view of the Constitution, which does not permit offensive war by the U. S. A." Is this not a clear expression of a desire for aggression, at least in these circles?

Too often you depend on data taken from surveys of the Gallup Institute, which in our opinion not only investigates, but makes public opinion in the United States, and its results are often the "pious wishes" of certain influential but, fortunately, not very numerous circles. That the results of the surveys of the Gallup Institute are not objective, is testified, for example, by the results of similar surveys of other institutions, as for example, the Center of Surveys of Public Opinion at the University in Denver, Colorado, which conducted an inquiry on the subject of whether the United States and the U. S. S. R. must decide upon war. 87 percent of the answers in the entire United States stated that neither the Soviet people nor the American desires war and that they will not decide upon it. Only 9 percent saw the possibility of an armed conflict.

Generally speaking, our Bureau of Studies considers a considerable part of the information as inaccurate and tendentious and partly not arranged, and in view of this, in a majority of cases, it cannot make use to advantage of this data and information, either as complementary or comparative material.

In accordance with the order of the Marshal, you must in the first place occupy yourself with military matters, giving us data concerning: .

1. Military doctrines of the United States.

2. Organization of the land army, air force, and navy:

(a) numerical strength—kind of recruitment;

- (b) location—taking into consideration bases.
 (c) armament and technical equipment, chiefly regarding the land army; communications (centers, kind of equipment); engineers (centers, kind of equipment). ment); artillery (equipment, technical data); armored defense (equipment, technical data).

EVALUATION OF THE MATERIAL FOR THE PERIOD: NOVEMBER 1946-JANUARY 1947

GENERAL REMARKS

Your reports contain much material, but they have nevertheless the character of chronological notations. This method of formulating and explaining your subject matter causes certain difficulties in taking advantage of it as informational, comparative, or supplementary material.

The following can serve as an example in this respect: considering the problems of perimetric defense in 17 reports.

To facilitate the work of our Bureau of Studies and to create for us a clear picture of the problems touched upon, I should like to ask that you arrange your reports in the following form;

(a) a synthetic development of the subject as a whole, to harmonize with established facts problems that have been in existence for a long time;

(b) a periodic development of the subject on the basis of information acquired in a precisely defined period.

I ask that you supplement the reports coming under point (a) with specific reports as incidents accrue and events develop.

In continuation, to support certain theses, you enclose quite frequently the results of "surveys of public opinion" of the Gallup Institute.

We wrote to you about this, and we repeat that the surveys made by the Gallup Institute are not decisive; please compare them with the surveys of other American institutions concerned with surveys of public opinion, which will to a certain degree facilitate your orientation and evaluation of the character of American society. Therefore, to depend on the Gallup Institute only is one-sided and insufficient. With the information, please always give the source.

SPECIAL REMARKS

No. 38/I.M. 46/Tjn. of 14-11-46 [14 November 1946]

It is not essential that "the building of additional large warships is going on at full speed," but it would be essential to show the types of these ships, their tonnage, their armament. The report should be completed with the following material: (1) technical and tactical data regarding ships outlitted for the so-called "atomic warfare," (2) concretely in what the change from the old equipment to new consists, (3) the data regarding the fleet of the United States in the Mediterranean Sea.

No. 31/I.M. 46/Tjn. of 15-11-46 [15 November 1946]

The statement of the budget of the land Army of the U. S. A. and the Navy is given thoroughly.

No. 43/I.M. 46/Tjn. of 18-11-46 [18 November 1946]

The report consists of abstract information, a single article, which does not give the whole of the problem. It could have been a fragment in a review of the American press regarding the western boundaries of Poland. Since it is presented as separate information, it cannot be used to advantage.

No. 28/I.M. 46/Tjn. of 21-11-46 [21 November 1946]

To supplement, please send the stipulations of the plan of the Army and the Navy providing for a six-month period of training of youth and the results of this plan.

No. 49/I. M. 46/Tjn. of 23-11-46 [23 November 1946]

To supplant please give:

1. Data regarding the National Guard and Organized Reserves (organization, numbers, method, and kind of training, officers);

2. Names of line ships slated for scrapping;

3. Data regarding the construction of "quick-firing" cruisers: (a) whether they are in use and how many; (b) construction program.

No. 52/I. M. Tjn/46 of 25-11-46 [25 November 1946]

Lewis' strike is evaluated properly and accurately.

Please give the following data: (a) what viewpoint is taken by coal companies in the matter of changing from bituminous coal to gas; (b) what kind of bases are found in Persia, their location, and personnel.

No. 59/I. M. Tjn/46 of 11-12-46 [11 December 1946]

1. The problem of a change from coal to other kinds of fuel is very important. Please investigate the technical side of a change to natural gas and liquid fuel.

2. Page 1, line 8, from the bottom, reads: "according to an official statement, coal sets in motion 50.4% of industry; oil, 10.2%." Please explain whether oil or petroleum. If oil, what kind?

¹The abbreviation "I.M." stands for Izydor Modelski. The abbreviation "Tjn." stands for "tajne," the Pollsh word for "secret."

No. 60/I. M. Tin/46 of 14 December 1946

Please investigate carefully and report all statements of officials and prominent persons in the U. S. A. regarding the German problem.

No. 61/I. M. Tjn/46 of 17-12-46 [17 December 1946]

The subject is developed one-sidedly, and, for that reason, it cannot be made use of to advantage. The declarations of the Gallup Institute are not competent if the question is one of the opinion of the people of the U. S. A. in regard to the U. S. S. R.

Militay Attaché at the Embassy of the Polish Republic in Washington, Lieutenant General Modelski (to be delivered to proper hands).

Despite my remarks and instructions thus far, I confirm on the basis of your reports that you continue uncritically to yield to the influence of your environment and the atmosphere created by the financial circles, which at the present time rule the United States.

Your reports and evaluations reveal that frequently you are unable to differentiate between all sorts of manifestations, facts, and inspired information, and the actual aims and tendencies of American policy.

As a result, your expose of the economic-political situation in the United States is not in conformity with the real situation in ruling America and represents only an echo of official propaganda.

Keeping constant contact, official and social, with persons of various world opinions, belonging to different political groups, is part of your official duties and should enable you to develop a well-rounded and accurate judgment concerning the sum total of events which occur in the life of the United States. The allowance given you for representation is designed for this purpose and should be used to benefit the service.

The analyses, evaluations, and deductions submitted by you to date concerning the situation in the U. S. A. differ from the opinions of Col. Alef on the same subject.

With a view toward improving the information service of the Office of the Attaché and to gain a broader picture of American life as a whole, I suggest that you cooperate more closely with Colonel Alef and aim at an objective and realistic evaluation of military problems, as well as the manifestations of economic and political life of the United States.

EVALUATION OF MATERIAL FOR THE PERIOD FROM 1-II (1 FEBRUARY) TO 30-4-1947 (30 APRIL 1947)

The materials received by us (practically all of which, with the exception of the [evaluation] of the German problem) are based exclusively on press reports. Although they do possess informational value, they do not, however, cover the matters to which we attach primary importance that is: the reporting on problems with a definite deadline as shown in the tabulation of problems enclosed in our letter No. 0827/II. It is an established fact that the press is one of the important sources of information, but not the only source of information.

Without disregarding the permanent and current affairs, please attend to the questions with a definite deadline as outlined in our letter 0827/II.

Up to the end of April we have not received any material relating to:

(a) Questions with definite deadlines: 1. Organization of the artillery.

2. Organization of the armored units.

3. Organization of the Air Force. 4. Numerical strength of the Army, Navy, and Air Forces.

(b) Routine questions:

1. Evidence of large units.

2. Radio industry.

3. Commerce 4. Financing of the occupation zone in Germany (capital and its penetration into Germany.) 5. Import-Export Bank.

6. International Monetary Fund.

7. War industry.

8. Communications and transport.

Please consider as very urgent, as the first task of the Attache's office, the completion of the missing data, in particular those relating to questions with definite deadlines.

In reply to your message of 12.X.1947 [12 October 1947].

1. The opinion of political circles:

The Bureau of Information in Belgrade is a maneuver of a propaganda nature. undoubtedly offensive, designed to support the Communist movements in Italy and France. It is not the ressurrection of the Comintern which "never died."

As the official expression of the governments of the Slavic Bloc, it will undoubtedly intensify the economic-political war now in progress and will not contribute to the maintenance of peace, since the Western Bloc will not permit the collapse of the Marshall Plan. To the contrary, the intensification of the conflict will lead rather to the collapse of the reconstruction plans in Eastern Europe, as the consequence of the loss of markets for the exportation of coal. Without aid from the West, there is no rehabilitation of the East. The political economic concept of the Eastern Bloc is doomed to a slow but certain end as a consequence of the economic collapse, and also additional differences in views on the world as a whole held by the people inhabiting Europe.

Only a general revolution in Western Europe can draw that part of Europe into the economic-political orbit of the Soviet Union, but there is little likelihood of this, and this will not succeed.

The offensive move of the Eastern Bloc is the second important stumbling block for the policy of the [Soviet] Union on the international arena, bringing nearer war rather than world peace.

As concerns Polish coal, on the exportation of which the Polish government bases its economic policy for the reconstruction of the Homeland, this coal, although cheaper and so essential for the reconstruction of Western Europe, can be replaced by coal of other origin, even though more expensive.

Tomorrow I shall transmit the opinion of military circles.

Lieutenant General Dr. I. Modelski. Military and Air Attaché. Coded Message No. -.

From: General W. Komar.

Subject: Cable of 12,X.47 [12 October 1947].

2. Opinion of military circles:

The Belgrade act also has a military aspect: to divert attention from the principal aim and direct it toward important aims, but which are of secondary importance in the present situation; namely, toward Italy and France. This view has already been voiced by the American General Staff in opposing the assignment of troops to Palestine, which country in the present situation occupies a position of lesser than secondary importance in the military planning.

In fact, the Soviet Union, thanks to its central position, holds the strategic advantage of being able to select the direction of the attack or attacks and the deployment of forces of an eventual adversary or adversaries; on the other hand. not having the advantage of free movement on the seas, [the Soviet Union] will, in the final analysis, itself be subject to a similar deployment.

Old applications of the strategy of retreat using space (Napoleon, Hitler) will no longer play the same role in modern strategy.

The consequence of the Belgrade offensive will be the acceptance of the law of universal military service, the increase of the military budget, and the acceleration of the military preparedness of the United States, as well as the withholding of all financial and export aid which might strengthen the [Soviet] Union and the Eastern Bloc; in short, the intensification of the economic war.

The next report will be devoted to the opinion of diplomatic circles.

Lt. Gen. I. Modelski.

Cablegram.

Secret.

Washington, 18.X.1947 [18 October 1947]

In reply to your cablegram of October 12, 1947.

General W. Komar:

3. Opinion of diplomatic circles here (Latin America):

The Warsaw-Belgrade 1 act is a test of political support for the economic war declared against the Marshall Plan.

The first reply of the United States is the resignation of Under Secretary of State Clayton 2 and the pending economic boycott of the Union and the Eastern bloc. Next will be the breaking off of diplomatic relations with the [Soviet] Union by the governments of South America.

The unquestionable defeat of the [Soviet] Union in the economic war will cause the political collapse of the Union, and under present conditions Russia is not yet prepared for military action.

As experience so far shows, Communism is not in a position to control any nation in favor of the concept of a Communist world without the use of armed forces for this purpose. Russia has accomplished this only by armed force, both as an ally and as an occupant in Eastern Europe.

The act of political intimidation by the manifesto of October 6 of this year had a contrary effect.

The Western Hemisphere will also give the United States full military support. Latin America has at its disposal a splendid although small army, organized and trained with the help of instructors from the United States.

The United States, exceedingly strengthened in its position, will not retreat and will not involve itself in a false compromise.

The Belgrade act is proof of Soviet weakness and is a preliminary to the decline of political influence of the Union.

Whatever the outcome of the political and economic war being waged now, and regardless of whether or not the [Soviet] Union will withdraw from the UN, the question of the settlement of boundaries must be finally decided upon at a general conference of the United Nations.

Lientenant General I. Modelski.

Cablegram.

Secret Washington, 15 May 1948.

General Komar, Warsaw:

1. According to my information, the latest United States moves, initiated on 4 May in Moscow, were intended to show the world that the United States, for its part, will not recognize nor undertake any bilateral conversations or agreements in connection with the international situation. This action is designed to strengthen confidence in the UN and the foreign policy of the United States.

Further large-scale political and military moves are to be expected by the U.S., backed by the great anti-Communist bloc which is to be revealed at the proper time. This action in Europe is supposed to be aimed at eliminating the division of Europe and the so-called iron curtain. General Bradley's speech on the subject of the freedom of the nations of Eastern Europe was already a significant indication thereof.

The basic element of the politico-military action of the U.S. is to be the public announcement of what, now separating the West and the East in Europe (including Turkey), the U.S. will regard as a line threatening the security of the U.S. and as a possible casus belli in the event it is crossed by the Eastern bloc.

The government of the U. S., in undertaking the new and great offensive for the sake of world peace, desires to reinforce it by a show of military strength and combat preparedness backed by a bipartisan policy and a purged, strong, and united home front. Despite strikes, which absolutely do not and will not have a political nature, nor will threaten the general security (see the coal and railroad strikes), the Government of the U.S. considers that it is in full control of the domestic situation and it need fear no surprises from this quarter in the event of an armed conflict.

At the same time, aside from private industry, which already has partially gone over to war production, several hundred government industrial plants and shipyards, which have been idle up to the present, are said to have received orders on April 15 of the present year to resume war production.

On April 30th of this year, the final staff work on establishing the organizational and operational plan of the defense perimeter and its special sectors, which has been going on for some time, was completed.

Representatives of countries with which the United States has secret military agreements likewise participated in this work.

2. As soon as possible, upon my return from hospital observation, to which I am again to submit during the next week as a result of the sudden worsening of my condition on April 30 of this year and my confinement to bed, I shall indicate the date of my return home.

At present, I again feel better. At any rate, if there are some questions which cannot be postponed, please submit them to me.

Within the next few days, I shall become the Dean of the Military-Diplomatic Corps in Washington.

Cablegram,

Secret Washington, 8 June 1948.

General Komar, Warsaw:

Neither the feverish preelection activity nor even the trimming of the ERP by the House should obscure the true military-political situation here. In spite of the present political atmosphere of peace, military circles are seriously counting on the possibility of an armed conflict as a result of some surprise attack on "the will of the people" at some strategic point. Recent numerous and unequivocal utterances of leading representatives of the armed forces are not merely an act of political pressure on the legislative bodies. The mobilization measures for preparedness have already encompassed all industry and the national economy, and measures for control over internal security are likewise nearing completion. The tremendous budget which was adopted will now make possible the realization of the entire mobilization plan. The continued strengthening of the Navy in Europe and the eventual granting by Congress of the power of decision in the matter of draft to President Truman prove that the so-called cold-war is passing into the hands of the military.

Voluntary military training in the schools is on a very high level, according to the opinion of Prof. Olpinski, who is visiting here.

The joint staff of the United States Armed Forces is undoubtedly fully occupied with the military problems of Europe, one proof of which is the conference of the American Intelligence Service now going on in Frankfurt and the disclosure of mobilization directives for American industry ("A guide for joint industry-military procurement planning," June 1948).

With regard to Poland, telegrams addressed to the Polish American Congress by leading American statesmen such as Vandenberg, Dewey, and Taft should not be regarded purely as courteous preelection telegrams.

Upon conclusion of the presidential campaign at the two principal conventions, the month of July should cast light on both the foreign and internal policies of the United States and become the starting point for a series of political and military moves by the United States.

General Modelski.

Cablegram.

Secret Washington, 15 June 1948

General W. Komar,
Warsaw:

The complete arming and rearming of the U.S. Armed Forces is being carried out in accordance with the so-called push-button concept. The disclosure of the plan of civilian mobilization, the law concerning the draft, insuring a peacetime strength of the armed forces of about 3½ million men, including 1½ million reserves (aside from the one-year voluntary service of youths (18 years old) numbering 161,000), and the so-called Foreign Legion, 25,000 at present, and the increase of 4 billion dollars in the budget of the armed forces alone, indicates not only an increase in the influence of the military but also the trend of future United States policy.

In many military fields new "sensational" achievements are said to have been attained, especially in the ability to "see the world." For this purpose, some sort of mysterions central station and a series of substations are being constructed (which I am investigating) on the perimeter, and the armed forces are likewise being equipped with already perfected guided missiles and the latest radar equipment.

The Senate's approval of Vandenberg's resolution concerning "alliances against aggression," Dulles' declaration that the United States will not recognize "accomplished facts." President Truman's speech in California, et cetera, prove that the so-called cold war, hitherto constantly condemned by military circles as harmful to the security of the United States, will not meet with a determined reaction on the part of the United States.

The State Department, I am informed, is preparing some sort of lengthy note to Moscow.

General Modelski.

Cablegram.

Secret Washington, 21 June 1948

General Komar,

Warsaw:

The final passage of the compulsory military service act in time of peace, none too easy because it is contrary to established traditions, presages a series of political regroupings in the cause of internationalism and United States leadership in the struggle against Communism. These changes are to become apparent at the so-called conventions and will be completed on the day the president is elected. Opponents of the "draft" (for example, Congressman O'Konski) 1 do not at all belong among the champions of the [Soviet] Union. Some defended tradition, others isolationism (without stating so publicly), and others again based their arguments on the fact of the recently increased influx of volunteers.

In general, however, the politicians do not foresee an armed conflict during this year and consider the "peace offensive" advantageous in the present situation.

This optimism, however, is not shared by military circles. The intelligence agencies of the Army and of the foreign service (NSA and CIA) for the second time are alarming the U. S. Government [by stating] that the [Soviet] Union is making a whole series of strategic moves in Europe and in Asia. The Joint Staff, with the approval of President Truman and on the motion of Sec. Forrestal, and Gen. Marshall, has issued a whole series of new regulations in this connection.

The new draft law, thanks to its flexibility, which is adapted to the local situation, will serve excellently both the concepts of compulsory and voluntary enlistment, as well as insure at the same time the increase and the quality of the reserves.

General Komar,

Warsaw:

No matter who becomes President, or what the the party composition of Congress is, the foreign and domestic policies of the United States will definitely pursue the course of fighting Communism. The retiring General Marshall is to be replaced by General MacArthur.

Military circles do not attach great importance either to Berlin (they do not believe that Russia is seeking a fight at this early date) or to the Tito affair. "Elsewhere" they see more important surprises, to meet which the United States continues to strengthen its strategic perimeter and is organizing the air forces of the future anti-Communist bloc (numerous missions are already functioning).

The control over industry (see the draft law) and the priority of orders from the military are being exploited to the full, and the construction of new war plants is in full swing. (I am investigating both matters.)

I wish to call attention to the "D. P." Act of June 18 2 of this year, which officially foreshadows the abrogation of military agreements not recognized by the Senate up to this time.

Secret Washington, 19 July 1948

General Komar. Warsaw:

I basically uphold all my reports to date. The present hot preelection platform contests are a normal phenomenon of the "way of life" here and do not threaten in any way the internal life or the fixed lines of foreign policy. The United States is secured against all surprise attacks by the great power with which the President is endowed as commander in chief, personally responsible for the state of security. In his hands lies complete decision to acknowledge where and when this security is or be threatened. He has the right to undertake all preventive steps, including war. The power of the President is even more complete since the United States formally continues to remain "in a state

President Truman, however, has so far been conducting a tactical policy of the coresponsibility of congressional bodies, not forgetting, however, the operations of a state of war. The special session of Congress called for the 26th of this month is to have for its purpose the adoption of "UMT," the foreign legion, and perhaps "national emergency."

[Soviet] Union to reckon with force. If it is to come to war, then it is better now, when the [Soviet] Union is not yet ready for it, than later. Hence the further strengthening of strategic positions (also of land armies) and the decision to support the resistance movements in "satellite" countries, as well as a possible blockade of maritime commercial lanes in reply to the blockade of Berlin.

Cablegram

General Komar, Warsaw.

Whatever the further development of the political and diplomatic warfare between the East and West may be, Truman's doctrine and global strategy will continue to remain actually political and military. The high prices of increased production and labor, together with the high percentage of employment (about 62 million persons) are, in my opinion, a natural phenomenon of huge military demands and the Marshall Plan (the 3-year plan of economic and industrial mobilization will end in October of this year), and not the expected classical depression or postwar inflation. From the military point of view, the great spy trial and the arrest of the leading Communists as a means of internal security in case of conflict with Soviet Russia have been accelerated.

[Received 12 December 1947]

Dear General: I have learned from General Paszkiewicz that your self-cognizance leaves much to be desired, the more so because the state of your health has lately been unsatisfactory. The information enclosed in the letter to General Paszkiewicz sheds new light on conditions existing in your Attaché's office.

I am extremely sorry that during the visit of your assistant to Warsaw I was not informed in detail regarding the existing situation. Your silence up to now regarding the existing relations with your assistant surprises me even more, since it is evident from your letter that this matter has not come up suddenly, but has been growing for a longer period of time.

There is no question in my mind that in such a responsible position as yours strict compliance with given orders and directives, conscientious and absolute discipline, and harmonious cooperation of the whole force are basic elements necessary for the proper functioning of the Attaché's office for the good of our Army and Fatherland.

After noting the contents of your letter, it seems to me that the existing situation prevents you from working calmly and efficiently. The unbecoming relations and conduct of Colonel Alef toward you, his superior, is obviously an intolerable matter from the viewpoint of military discipline, as well as for the good of the service. Please believe me, General, that I shall not fail to draw the proper conclusions from the above and I shall take the proper preventive measures for the future. You must not at the same time occupy yourself with this matter and I sincerely advise you not to take it too much to heart.

I know that you have a good will and the best desire to serve the cause which we all serve. We come to you with complete friendship, which, after all, we have expressed repeatedly.

The evaluation of your reports from the angle of our needs should not discourage you. The aim of these evaluations is to give you the opportunity to direct the work of the office of the Attaché with respect to our main and existing requirements arising from the present situation.

It is difficult for me to discuss fully in a short letter the matters and problems accumulated during your half-year absence from your country. I judge that it would be better if you came here for a few weeks.

I am convinced that your immediate presence and personal general explanation will bring much interesting and valuable material regarding all these problems, which cannot be fully referred to and discussed in official reports. We shall also be able to discuss in particular all the headaches, grievances, and questions of the Attaché's office, and we shall also on this occasion definitely regulate and correct the question of the undesirable working atmosphere in your Attaché's office.

I leave the matter to you of possibly bringing Colonel Alef with you.

And so—until we meet. I wish you everything good and I remain with a sincere handshake.

(Signed) Komar.

The doctors said that my departure at present is not indicated. They predict that my complete recovery would take place within 4 to 6 weeks, at the latest, so that I would not be able to undertake a journey until about the middle of July of this year. In communicating the foregoing, I wish to state that I do not accept the proposal offered me in your cable of May 22 of this year, as this proposal, coming (as it does) at the end of my illness, is untimely. I greatly regret that you did not make me this offer during the most critical period of my illness, inasmuch as you knew about it, and, also, about the fact that, in spite of it, I nevertheless did not neglect my basic duties. What is more, I achieved your recognition and your decision to retain me in this important post. Almost all my predictions so far have proven true, and I maintain that the others will likewise come true. I received no replies to my inquiries whether you need any particular information, other than the constant demand that I return in spite of my illness. Unfortunately, you did not inquire about the state of my health, so that now, when the state of my health is beginning to be satisfactory,

I cannot and do not accept your proposal, as it is untimely by now.

I do not overestimate, but I do fully evaluate my worth, documented by my unselfish and honest service to the nation and the State, which at one time ordered me to return and to appeal to others to return home.

I long to come home, and I shall do so at a later date.

[Counterattack, July 25, 1947]

Norman Corwin is quoted by Natl. Chairman Wm. Z. Foster, of the Communist Party, in a recent issue of an innerparty bulletin, Counterattack's investigators report exclusively. In the bulletin, which is intended for party members only, Foster recalls Corwin's "One World" tour last year and his report on it in 13 weekly broadcasts on CBS. Foster says, "He told of the youthful mayor of an Italian city, who, when asked why he was a Communist, answered in five words: 'Because I am a worker.'"

Foster is right. That is exactly how Corwin put it. It was one of the neatest touches of his whole pro-Moscow series, which threw the Communist press into ecstacies. Corwin is a clever man. Not that it takes much cleverness to fool the average radio listener. A detailed analysis of Corwin's series on CBS would easily show the tricks that were used.

Corwin is active in the new radio front, the so-called Voice of Freedom Committee, along with Dorothy Parker, Johannes Steel, Wm. S. Gailmor, and other Communists. Steadily busy in various fronts, he is an important front man for the Communist Party in influencing public opinion.

The movie Communists and the radio Communists are working together in their campaign to smear all anti-Communist measures as "thought control," as "witch hunts," as "antiliberal * * * and thus to protect the Communist

FINANCIAL REPORT FROM INCEPTION TO DECEMBER 31, 1945

BLATTNER & ROSEN. New York 22, N. Y., January 23, 1946.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS,

New York City.

GENTLEMEN: We have examined the books and records of the Congress reflecting cash receipts and disbursements, and have compiled therefrom the annexed exhibits and schedules covering the activities from January 24, 1944. to December 31, 1945:

Exhibit A. Balance Sheet as at December 31, 1945.

Schedule A-1. Loans Receivable.

Exhibit B. Cumulative Statement of Income and Expenses, Income Section. Exhibit C. Cumulative Statement of Income and Expenses, Expenses Section. Exhibit D. Summary Statement of Cash Receipts and Disbursements From Inception to December 31, 1945.

Schedule D-I. Statement of Receipts, January 24 to December 31, 1944. Schedule D-2. Statement of Receipts for the Year 1945.

Schedule D-3. Statement of Disbursements, January 24 to December 31, Schedule D-4. Statement of Disbursements for the Year 1945.

COMMENTS

Exhibit A. Balance Sheet

Schedule A-1 of this report lists Loans Receivable aggregating $675. If any of these are uncollectable they should, upon proper resolution of your committee, be written off.

Exhibits B and C

These exhibits reflect the income (as distinguished from receipts) and the expenses paid during the period from inception to December 31, 1945. You will observe that the income exceeded the expenditures by $2,551.81.

Exhibit D

Exhibit D and the supporting schedules reflect the cash receipts and disbursements of the organization from inception to December 31, 1945. The poor condition of the records made impossible the proper classification of the items. The items, as classified in the schedules referred to, give the best designation we have been able to arrive at.

The balance at December 31, 1945, of $2,595.28, is on deposit in the bank to the credit of your organization.

Your attention is directed to items in Schedules D-1 and D-2 referred to as "Overdeposits, etc." The sums represent the excess of deposits over the recorded receipts. Obviously, this is indicative of lax handling of funds. In this instance, the organization deposited in the bank more than the records indicate that it received. Such a laxity, however, may also lead to shortages which would be embarrassing to those handling your funds.

It must also be noted that in view of such overdeposits, persons who paid in money may not have been given proper receipts therefor.

General comments

Withholding tax.—Your office did not comply with the internal revenue law requiring the withholding of income tax from employees' salaries. Currently, such withholding tax is being deducted, but we find that salaries of office employees are being spit into salaries and expenses and the withholding tax is being made only from the salary sum. This is improper and should be discontinued. The tax should be calculated on the full sum received by the employee.

Social security.—The organization did not pay social security from its inception. Only in 1945 social security tax was paid.

General compliance with internal revenue laws.—Under the internal revenue law, your organization is required to file an application for exemption from income tax and submit data pertinent thereto. It is also required that you file annually, on Form 990, a return entitled "Annual Return of Organizations Exempt from Income Tax Under Section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code."

We will be glad, upon instruction from you, to prepare the necessary forms for filing.

Internal office system.—We have instructed your bookkeeper in the recording of your income and expenses which will enable us to give you financial data on a functional basis rather than in the form of the present report.

Since considerable money is handled annually by your organization, it would be desirable, in view of changes in personnel that normally occur, that it be the policy of your organization to have its office employees bonded.

We will be glad to furnish any further explanation of the contents of this report.

Respectfully submitted.

FINANCIAL REPORT, YEAR 1946

BLATTNER & ROSEN. New York 22, N. Y., January 28, 1947.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS,

New York City.

GENTLEMEN: We have audited the books and records of the congress for the year 1946, and we are pleased to submit herewith the following:

Exhibit A. Statement of Assets and Liabilities as at December 31, 1946. Exhibit B. Statement of Income and Expenses for the Year 1946.

Exhibit C. Statement of Receipts and Disbursements for the Year 1946.

Schedule A-1. Loans Receivable. Schedule A-2. Taxes and Expenses Payable.

COMMENTS

Exhibit A. Balance Sheet.

This exhibit shows the financial status of your organization as at the close of the year 1946. It is to be noted, however, that certain bills for expenses incurred during the year have not been received and are not reflected herein.

Exhibit B. Statement of Income and Expenses

The income for the year was $73,362.05 and the expenses totaled $62,947.55, leaving $10,414.50 to be added to the surplus (see exhibit A). The addition to surplus would be reduced by the amount of unpaid bills not shown in the balance sheet.

Exhibit C. Statement of Cash Receipts and Disbursements.

This statement shows the deposits to and withdrawals from the bank account of the organization.

In our previous annual report, we pointed out various matters that needed attention, such as the compliance with internal revenue laws, etc. We are pleased to report that the required tax returns were prepared and filed. Records were adequately kept, and we had the cooperation of your office personnel in making our audit.

Respectfully submitted.

BULGARIANS IN UNITED STATES MUST ANSWER DIMITROFF'S CALL-HEROIC LEADER OF THE COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL AN INSPIRATION AND AN EXAMPLE TO THE Toilers of the Whole World

(By George Pirinsky)

The Seventh World Congress of the Communist International closed with Dimitroff's ringing call for a world-wide united front of all toilers to smash fascism and, together with it, capitalism.

The mighty echo of this call still resounds as a revolutionary battle cry in all countries and continents.

The election of Dimitroff to the position of chairman of the executive committee of the Communist International will be greeted by all class-conscious toilers of the world with tremendous struggle against fascism and war, because in him they see the symbol of proletarian courage, the unconquerable will to fight to victory, the great Bolshevik leader of the world-wide struggle against Fascist slavery and war, the great Stalin's loyal and tried comrade in arms.

PROUD OF THEIR HERO-DIMITROFF

The American toilers, who followed the historic battle which he so fearlessly and openly waged against the most ferocious beasts of German fascism at the epochal Leipzig trial, are proud of Dimitroff. All class-conscious world toilers are proud of him.

But of a special character is our pride—the pride of the Bulgarian and Macedonian workers. It is the kind of pride Lenin wrote about in 1914.

article, "On the National Pride of the Great Russians," he declared:

We are filled with national pride because of the knowledge that the great Russian Nation, too, has created a revolutionary class; that it, too, has proven capable of giving humanity great examples of struggle for liberation and for socialism; that its contribution is not confined solely to great pogroms, numerous scaffolds, torture chambers, great famines, and great servility before the priests, the tsars, the landowners, and the capitalists."

A TRIED LEADER

Dimitroff was born, raised, and fought among the Bulgarian-Macedonian workers and peasants of the turbulent Balkans. There he grew into a fearless and devoted working class fighter. The 30 years of hard struggle against the Bulgarian and Balkan tyrants made him a tried and steeled leader. The defeat of the Bulgarian workers and peasants in September 1923 didn't discourage him, as the defeat of the Russian workers in 1905 didn't discourage Lenin and Stalin.

Long before the arrest and after he was snatched from the clutches of German fascism by the mighty protest of the toiling masses of all countries, Dimitroff closely followed the development of the revolutionary movement among the Bulgarian-Macedonian workers in the United States. With his help in the form of comradely advice, large sections of them broke away from the deadly sectarian influence of the Socialist Labor Party and alined themselves with the Communist movement. Through the columns of the Daily Worker, Dimitroff sent revolutionary greetings to the Bulgarian workers and their weekly Sazanie.

GREETS COUNTRYMEN HERE

Previous to his arrest in Germany, Dimitroff expressed delight at the rapid development of the Macedonian People's League, which in a short period of 5 years grew into the largest Macedonian organization in America. And 2 months after arriving in Moscow he sent the warmest comradely greetings to the delegates of the fourth national convention of the league in Chicago. I will never forget the moment I received the letter as national secretary of the Macedonian People's League. The first lines were lines of comradely encouragement and a statement of the Bolshevik position on the Macedonian national question. Dimitroff wrote:

"Fraternal greetings to the Fourth National Convention of the Macedonian People's League.

"I feel myself directly connected with the destiny of the Macedonian people both as a Bulgarian proletarian revolutionist and as a son of a Macedonian family coming from Razlog—the valley of the historic Elinden uprising in Macedonia in 1903."

ADVICE TO DELEGATES

Dimitroff concluded his greetings with the following comradely advice to the delegates:

"Only the united revolutionary struggle of the Macedonian people in close alliance with the workers and peasants of Bulgaria, Jugoslavia, and Greece can bring to victory the Macedonian revolution for liberation.

"Only the Soviet system, as the experiences of the great Soviet Union glaringly proved, can guarantee the final national liberation and the complete national unification.

"In this spirit, I wholeheartedly wish success to your convention.

"Moscow, May 13, 1934.

"G. DIMITROFF."

The convention made this letter the key to the activities of the whole revolutionary movement among the Bulgarian-Macedonian workers of America.

A protest march against the execution of the brave anti-Fascist fighters in Bulgaria was organized to the Bulgarian Embassy in Washington.

The Fi1th National Convention of the Macedonian People's League sent $200 for the support of the victims of white terror in Bulgaria and Macedonia.

The Bulgarian-Macedonian steel and auto workers of Gary, Detroit, Lorain, and Lackawanna became more active in the daily struggles of the masses for higher wages, against deadly speed-up, against deportations and all reactionary laws, against the high cost of living, against fascism and war.

MUST CONTINUE WORK

The militant antiwar, anti-Fascist mass demonstration, held in a heavy rain in Akron, Ohio, on the last day of the fifth national convention of the MPL, June 2, 1935, enraged the rubber barons and their hirelings to madness at the sight of the red flag; and the thousand marching Bulgarian-Macedonian and Akron Negro and white workers.

Now, more than ever, this good work must be continued more tirelessly, more systematically, more widely than ever. The mighty, fighting call of Comrade Dimitroff from the world Bolshevik tribune of the Seventh Congress of the Communist International must rouse to struggle all Bulgarian-Macedonian workers of the great steel and auto factories of the United States. A broad united front of all Bulgarian-Macedonian workers, farmers, storekeepers, and professionals must be built up as an organic part of the American United Front of the working class.

Hence he has no time to study affairs countries he visits. That's all.

MEMORANDUM

MAY 16, 1949.

As requested by Director R. Kutylowski, the laws and regulations were checked, in order to answer the question put forth, namely, "Can the vessel collect passage money from a stowaway, and does this (collection of passage) change his status from such (as a stowaway) to the status of a passenger?"

In order to answer this question it was first necessary to establish the definition of a stowaway, as established in American laws. Court decisions, prior to June 11, 1940, in most instances, refer to a stowaway as "one who conceals himself on board an outgoing vessel for the purpose of obtaining free passage."

Prior to this date, which could not be exactly checked, the act of June 11, 1940, as amended by the act of April 4, 1944, section 1, states: "That any person, without the consent of the owner, charterer, or master, of any vessel, and with the intent to obtain without paying therefor, transportation on such vessel, to any place, within or without the United States, who shall board, enter, or secrete himself aboard such vessel, and shall be thereon at the time of departure of said vessel from said port, wharf, or harbor, or other place within the jurisdiction of the United States, including the Canal Zone, or who, with such intention, having boarded or secreted himself aboard such vessel, within or without the jurisdiction of the United States, shall remain aboard any such vessel after such vessel has left such place, and shall be thereon within the jurisdiction of the United States, including the Canal Zone, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, subject to a fine not exceeding $500, or imprisonment for a period not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court" (58 Stat. 188; 18 U. S. C. 469).

From the foregoing, it seems that a stowaway is considered to be one who does not pay for his passage.

The question mentioned above involves a problem whether a stowaway can change his status by paying for transportation. We could not find any definite court decisions regarding this, indicating that such change could take place. But one of the court decisions refers to Rule No. 23, promulgated by the Commissioner of Immigration, which deals with the problem whether a stowaway should be, and can be, examined by the immigration and customs authorities, with a view of being admitted to the United States. Amongst others, this rule states the following: "While these regulations cover all ordinary cases of stowaways, and are in practice but found to be of almost uniform application, yet cases may rarely arise in which the alien, though a stowaway, may nevertheless be entitled to inspection and to admission, if found to belong to none of the excluded classes. For example, the alien, though originally a stowaway, may have been, because of particular facts of his case, accepted by the vessel as a passenger, and manifested in such a way as to substantially comply with the law, or may have been employed as a member of the crew, or the causes which lead the alien to stowaway may have been such so as to bring his case of 'proviso' to section 2 of the Immigration Act, and entitle him to special consideration, Exceptional cases of this character should be promptly brought to the attention of the Department, with a full statement of facts and a request for instructions" (Federal Reporter, vol. No. 193, p. Nos. 229–230).

There is also a court decision (United States v. Sandrey, Federal Reporter, vol. No. 48, p. 550) to the effect that the stowaways who were accepted as crew members, and duly signed in the articles, should be permitted to land as seamen. The fact that such seaman deserts while in port does not affect the master's responsibility (no fine for bringing him into the country). The above indicates that a change of status may be permissible (although it should be noted that this decision is dated December 26, 1891).

The immigration regulations require that every stowaway be manifested and presented for inspection in the same manner as are other aliens, and the fact that they were stowaways should be indicated in the manifest (U. S. C. No. 148–149). The forementioned regulation seems to indicate that even if the status of the stowaway is changed to that of a seaman or passenger, the fact that he is a stowaway should be indicated.

On the basis of the above-mentioned regulations, it seems to be possible for the captain to accept passage money from the stowaway, and report him on the passenger's manifest, although he should clearly indicate that this particular passenger boarded the vessel as a stowaway.

Considering the above regulations, it seems that the particular incident we are interested in does not fall into this category. As mentioned above, the characteristics of a stowaway are that he boards the vessel with no intention to pay the passage, which is not this case.

The respective regulations established that no alien shall depart from the United States, except at a port of departure, and unless there has been issued, in accordance with these regulations, a valid permit to depart, or he is exempted from these regulations in obtaining a permit to depart. The categories of aliens not entitled to depart (State Department regulations pursuant to the act of May 22, 1918, as amended) are listed in the respective act, and amongst others, they state that to this category belong: "(f) Any alien who is a fugitive from justice, on account of an offense punishable in the United States, (g) Any alien whose presence is needed as a witness in, or as a party to, any criminal case pending in a Federal court, or which is under investigation."

From the above, it appears that although in common language a man boarding a vessel without a ticket would be considered as a stowaway, in this particular case the intention of the man boarding the vessel was not to "obtain, without pay therefor, transportation," but to escape justice, and a suitable description of his status would be "a fugitive from justice."

In appraising the situation resulting from the above, we should keep in mind the terms of Public Law No. 114, Stat. No. 55, of June 21, 1941, which amends the act of May 22, 1918, and which established the penalty for willful violation of the provisions of said act, and also penalties with regard to people who willfully or knowingly participate in such violation.

In the act of May 22, 1918, referred to above, it is made unlawful: "(b) For any person to transport or attempt to transport from or into the United States, any person with knowledge, or reasonable cause to believe, that the departure or entry of such other person is forbidden by this act;".

Taking the above into consideration, it should be stated that although, on the basis of certain court decisions, and some immigration laws, there is a possibility of accepting passage money from a stowaway, it is apparent that by taking such a stand, we may jeopardize the position of the line and the vessel, because of implications resulting from specific regulations regarding departure of aliens, as described above.

Re: M/S Batory, voyage No. 63.

The Embassy of Poland, Washington.

Enclosed we are sending you a memorandum on the American act concerning illegal passengers (stowaways) as well as an extract from the prewar "instructions for Gdynia America Line vessels" establishing the mode of procedure on the part of the purser in case passengers who had not undergone inspection or illegal passengers who are found on board the vessel. We do not know whether the above instructions are on board the vessel or whether they constituted the basis for the action on the part of the purser and the captain.

Moreover, we have established the fact that there is a custom in the American and other merchant marines by virtue of which the captain and the purser of the vessel respectively are duty bound to make all efforts to collect from an illegal passenger the costs connected with his illegal passage on board the vessel.

At the same time we take the liberty of calling the Embassy's special attention to the concluding recommendations of the memorandum analysing the American law regulations, advising against the adoption of a stand that might make the vessel and the line liable to penalties for giving aid to an illegal passenger.

Respectfully yours,

MEMORANDUM 1

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont.

in his own car. I informed the Captain and the rest of our party about this. The Captain had his doubts whether he should proceed at all in view of the fact that the solemn promise given to him by the Inspectors, that the three men will be returned to the ship within one hour, was not kept. Also the matter of prestige was brought into discussion. This controversial issue was finally solved after discussion with an Immigration inspector, who after calling his office, informed Consul Galewicz that it is agreeable for him that the Captain proceed with Consul Galewicz in the consular car, and that he will follow them in his own car. After this, the party consisting of Consul Galewicz, CaptainCwiklinski and two Immigration inspectors (in business suits) left the vessel.

The investigation of the crew was proceeding orderly and there were still several seamen remaining for checking. About 7 P. M., the questioning of the crew was finished, and the investigating party left the vessel.

As no word was, as yet, received from the party at 70 Columbus Avenue, about 10 P. M., the undersigned and Mr. Sztam, on Director R. Kutylowski's instructions, went to contact the inspector in charge at 70 Columbus Avenue in order to ascertain the present status of this matter. We were informed that the investigation of those taken to the Immigration offices is finished and that they are about to proceed to the vessel. It was understood that this meant the end of the investigation, for the time being, and that the vessel and the crew were cleared. About 10:30 P. M., the party from 70 Columbus Avenue returned and confirmed the information obtained over the telephone. In addition, the Consul General stated that he brought Captain Cwiklinski to 70 Columbus Avenue without any escort and was present when he was questioned, and was also permitted to look through the statement prepared. He considered these facts very gratifying.

From the above, we understood that no further action on the part of the Immigration authorities is contemplated, and the vessel may be permitted to depart as scheduled. Nevertheless, all precautionary measures which were taken in connection with the possibility of shortages in the crew in case some men were called before the Grand Jury, were maintained until the vessel's departure. It was decided that a statement to be made by the Captain be prepared to be distributed to the press just before the departure of the vessel.

It should be pointed out that in the course of the day, several statements were made by Immigration inspectors which indicated that the vessel may be permitted to depart as scheduled. They were checking arrangements for the clearance and taking draft of the vessel, as well as to time required for checking the passengers boarding the ship.

It also should be stated that the merchants usually coming to the vessel were admitted and a number of packages were purchased by the seamen for their families.

CONFIDENTIAL

From: New York.

To: Gdynia.

Subject: M/S Batory, Voy. Nos. 63 and 64, Stowaway, Gerhardt Eisler. By courtesy of Capt. Jan. Cwiklinski, M/S Batory, left New York July 6, 1949.

June 24, 1949.

We believe that you are more or less informed about the happenings in this matter which took place on this side. Nevertheless, it seems in older to give you a more precise picture of such.

After receipt of the cable on May 9, 1949, informing us that there is one stowaway on board M/S Batory, as a matter of routine, we asked the vessel for additional information which was received on May 11, 1949. At this time we informed the immigration office about the stowaway, and were asked to obtain the date and place of his birth. This additional information was received on May 12, 1949, and the immigration authorities were informed accordingly.

The investigation resulting therefrom caused the following people from our office to be subpensed to appear before the grand jury on May 18, 1949: Director Roman Kutylowski, Mr. Czeslaw Grzelak, Mr. S. Y. Smith, Mr. Alexander Shelow, Mr. R. E. Corbett, and Mr. S. C. Sztam. They all appeared as requested and gave their depositions.

Foreseeing that the investigation will be pursued and some action taken by United States authorities, in connection with this matter, we approached our attorneys, Messrs. Haight, Deming, Gardner, Poor & Havens, and consulted with them on various aspects of this incident. These conferences were attended by two more attorneys retained by the Polish Embassy in Washington. Furthermore, we took several precautionary steps in order to avoid delay in the departure of the vessel, and arranged for several men to stand by in case any replacements in the crew became necessary.

The events which took place from June 2, 1949, to the date of departure of the vessel are covered by five office memorandums which give the full picture of the happenings. In addition to this, three separate memorandums were made covering the following subjects: Legal assistance, precautionary measures, and the separate matter of Mr. Czeslaw Grzelak. All the above memorandums attached hereto.

We believe that this material will give you a sufficient picture of the events on our side resulting from Mr. Eisler's stowing away on our M/S Batory until the departure of the vessel on June 6, 1949.

> CORBIN, BENNETT & DELEHANTY, New York 4, July 1, 1949.

ISAIAH MATLACK, Esq., United States Courthouse. New York, N. Y.

MY DEAR MR. MATLACK: I have tried unsuccessfully to reach you by telephone both here and in New Jersey, hence this note, which I am sending to both places.

Following your telephone call of the other day, asking whether the purser, whom you desire to interview, is arriving on the Batory tomorrow, I asked for that information, and am told that he is not on the ship on this trip to New York. I also inquired as to when they expected him to return here, and they assume and expect that in the normal course of events he will be returning on the next voyage of the Batory, or on some other ship that may sail for New York prior to the next departure of the Batory from Gdynia.

Trusting that this is the information you want, and that it will meet your every requirement for the present, and further assuring you that as soon as I have any further information as to when the purser will arrive I will let you know, and do everything in my power to make him available for you to interview in my presence.

Sincerely yours,

CORBIN, BENNETT & DELEHANTY, New York 4, N. Y., July 1949.

NORMAN M. LITTELL, Esq., Washington, D. C.

DEAR NORMAN: Thanks for yours of June 30 with enclosures, all of which are instructive and very helpful to me.

It is now 4:30 in the afternoon, and I have been trying to reach Mr. Matlack both here and in Jersey ever since our telephone conversation this morning, but without success. I left messages that I had called him at both places, for fear that he may think that I ignored his request for information concerning the purser, and I have written him per enclosed copy, addressing one to New York and the other to New Jersey.

I talked with Mr. Deming around luncheon time today, and he thought that what we agreed upon by way of information to be given to Mr. Matlack was all right. Mr. Deming will be away over the holiday, but said that his partner, Mr. Haight would be in charge of the matter should any of us desire to communicate with his firm on any developments. Mr. Deming also said that if necessary he could get back to the city within an hour or two, should any emergency arise. I told him that I would be around and available at my uptown number tomorrow and Sunday, should anyone want to reach me.

I doubt that any untoward thing will happen. I am sending a copy of this letter to Mr. Haight, and another copy to Mr. Kutylowski for their information.

With best regards.

Sincerely,

HAROLD.

M/S "BATORY," No. 63, STOWAWAY, G. EISLER, MEMORANDA

MEMORANDUM

THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont.

On Thursday, June 2, as previously agreed upon, we were to have a conference at Mr. Deming's office with Mr. Norman D. Littell, attorney from Washington, at which time all aspects of the case were to be discussed, and the necessary measures decided.

In the morning, we were informed by Mr. Deming that Mr. Littell is delayed but will arrive later, so that we may have the conference at 2 p. m. At that time, I was informed by Director Kutylowski that it is his intention to invite for this conference the Consul General, Jan Galewicz. When we met at Mr. Deming's office, there was also Mr. Harold H. Corbin, who was to be the counsel for the line with regard to the problems involving criminal law. Therefore, the people present at this conference were Consul General Jan Galewicz, Director Roman Kutylowski, and Mr. W. Talmont from Gdynia America Line, Inc., and Messrs. Harold Deming, Harold H. Corbin, and Norman D. Littell, attorneys.

At the beginning of the conference, after Mr. Deming introduced the people attending, Mr. Littell pointed out that despite all the difficulties, he believes that it will be possible to find a favorable solution for all the complications which arose.

The discussion started on the subject of tactics which should be applied in this matter, and, in particular, whether the line's representative should contact the respective American authorities in order to ask them their intentions with regard to the vessel and its crew. After a lengthy discussion, it was agreed that Mr. Corbin, on behalf of the line, will contact the district attorney, and discuss the matter with him in a spirit of cooperation, and also offer evidence on hand (extracts from the logbook and purser's report).

As a second point of the meeting, it was discussed who should proceed on the cutter to meet the vessel. It was suggested that the consul general, Director Kutylowski, as director of the line, and Mr. Corbin, attorney for the line, should proceed on the cutter and board the vessel at Quarantine. It was decided that the party, as mentioned above, will proceed to the vessel.

At this point, Mr. Harold Deming brought up the subject of the Purser Borowicz not being on board the vessel. He stated that in accordance with the extract from the logbook, he is the most important witness for American authorities, and there is no doubt that they will dissent the fact of his absence. Director Kutylowski stated that the absence of the purser was presumably caused by the normal course of operation of the company's vessels, and that, to his knowledge, the purser, although important, may not be the main person involved in the incident of the discovery of a stowaway on board Batory, because the protocol indicates that Eisler made his first appearance at the firstclass purser's office, where the chief purser never stays. According to the crew list, all his assistants remain on board. The consul general and Director Kutylowski disliked the idea of being obligated to American authorities for bringing Mr. Borowicz by plane or otherwise, for investigation in the United States. After a lengthy discussion during which Messrs. Deming, Corbin, and Littell insisted that this matter be given due consideration, and the cable dispatched, it was suggested that the consul general should cable the respective Polish authorities in order to obtain the required information. This matter was left open for further consideration.

Afterward, we proceeded with the discussion as to the extent of cooperation we are ready to grant the American authorities.

The American attorneys pointed out that full cooperation should be given, and no facts, disregarding where they took place, should be withheld. The consul general took the position that he cannot permit that all the things which occurred on board the vessel outside of the American territorial waters, and do not have any bearing on the facts how and when Eisler was discovered on board the vessel, be subject to investigation. He believes that no court has the right to ask the captain and the crew members questions pertaining to the events in Southampton, correspondence or exchange of cables by the captain and the Polish authorities or the line's officials, and so forth. He stated that this is a matter of prestige of the Polish Government and the Polish vessel, and that these things should be given proper consideraion. He was informed by those present that the proceedings before the grand jury are such that whenever a witness has a question which he feels that he should not or does not wish to answer, he states so to the foreman of the jury, and asks that he be taken before the judge to argue his viewpoint. During the argument before the judge, he has the right to have his counsel who can argue the legal aspects of such question and its bearing on the case. The ruling by the judge is final, and if the judge rules that the witness should answer such question, he is compelled to do so or may be indicted for contempt of court. The American attorneys felt that we cannot offer our cooperation to the American authorities and at the same time make reservations and limitations as to the extent of such cooperation. If any efforts are made to avoid answering certain questions, it may have a detrimental bearing on the whole case, and may give the impression that we are withholding certain information, The above-mentioned stressed that it is their belief that no questions not having direct bearing on the matter will be asked, and that they believe that the authorities investigating the matter would limit same only to the question how and under what circumstances Eisler boarded the vessel and was discovered. Notwithstanding this, the consul general argued his viewpoint very strongly, and at a certain moment, it developed that we cannot proceed any further with the consultation without the consul general contacting the Embassy. The consul general tried several times to reach the Embassy over the telephone but did not succeed.

In view of the above, this conference was adjourned. The decisions reached during such were suspended pending results of consultation of the consul general with the Ambassador. Consul Galewicz and Director Kutylowski then left for Washington in order to discuss the problems with the Ambassador.

GDYNIA AMERICA LINE, INC., New York, N. Y., June 3, 1949.

Confirmation of cable sent to Master, Batory.

Conference legal representatives United States Government confirmed our view in best interests of line that you give United States authorities fullest aid in endeavoring discover how Eisler succeeded stowing away on vessel's departure New York. Representatives of United States will board ship at quarantine to question officers and crew. This is to instruct you to see to it that officers and crew answer all questions pertinent to this inquiry asked by any United States official showing his credentials. However, the press should be told that in view United States Government inquiry it is believed improper to give interviews to press.

KUTYLOWSKI,

June 3, 1949.

Re M. S. Batory.

At about 12:45 p. m., Mr. Sztam, our landing agent, presented at the custom house, to Mr. Joseph J. Flynn, assistant surveyor of the port of New York, an application, in the usual form, for cutter passes to meet the M. S. Batory, due New York June 4, in favor of—

Mr. R. Kutylowski, Director, Gdynia America Line, Inc., New York.
 Jan Galewicz, consul general of the Republic of Poland, in New York.
 Mr. Harold Harlow Corbin, attorney for the Gdynia America Line, Inc.

New York.

Mr. Sztam advised that he was told by Mr. Flynn that the line already has a number of cutter passes and that he could not give Mr. Sztam a decision on the application until 4 or 4:30 p. m., and that Mr. Sztam should telephone him by

Mr. Sztam telephoned Mr. Flynn about 4:10 p. m. and states that he was advised at that time that the application for the passes is refused and that further, all cutter passes, temporary or semi-annual, will not be honored tomorrow, except the pass issued to Mr. Sztam, the landing agent. When Mr. Sztam protested, he was advised by Mr. Flynn that these orders came from the immigration authorities.

Mr. Sztam then telephoned Mr. Gibney, inspector in charge, Boarding Division, Barge Office, protesting to him in the matter, and was advised by Mr. Gibney that he was sorry, there was nothing he could do about it and that the orders came from Washington. Mr. Gibney stated further that actually Washington had ordered that nobody from the line would be permitted to board the ship from cutter, but that the immigration department in New York requested the presence of at least one member of the landing staff as absolutely necessary.

Mr. Sztam, at our request, telephoned Mr. Flynn as to whether the newspapermen were being permitted to board the ship from the cutter, and was advised in the affirmative. Mr. Sztam then asked Mr. Flynn whether he could come over to see him personally, and Mr. Flynn agreed.

Mr. Sztam, at about 4:30 p. m., went to see Mr. Flynn to intercede for at least two cutter passes for his two assistants in the landing department, as they are absolutely necessary for the smooth operation of the discharge of passengers arriving on the ship. He felt that possibly Mr. Flynn could issue two special passes for them, but was told that there was nothing that could be done. Mr. Flynn said that there is a possibility that visitors will not be allowed inside the customs lines on the pier, despite their being in possession of permits issued in the custom house which normally permits them inside the customs lines. Mr. Sztam then asked Mr. Flynn whether employees of the line holding "employee passes" could be permitted inside the line, and was told that the immigration department would make this decision.

At about 4:55 p. m., Mr. Sztam called Mr. P. Esperdy, assistant enforcement officer of the United States Immigration Service, New York district, and requested his advice in this connection. He was told that no one would be allowed inside the custom lines until the ship docks, and that only at that time will the immigration authorities make a decision as to who, if anyone, will be permitted inside the customs lines and/or the ship.

Incidentally, it is our understanding that Mr. Flynn, Mr. Esperdy, and Mr. T. Doser, accounting enforcement officer of the immigration department, are boarding the ship from the cutter.

MEMORANDUM

FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont. Subject:

About 12 noon, the undersigned received a telephone call from Director Kutylowski, asking me to arrange for a conference with Mr. Corbin in our office. At that time, in view of the fact that it was getting late, and it was necessary to file the application with the customhouse for passes to board the cutter, the undersigned asked Director Kutylowski who will proceed on the cutter in order to board the vessel at Quarantine. Director Kutylowski stated that the passes should be obtained for himself, Consul General Galewicz and Mr. Harold H. Corbin, I passed on this decision to Mr. S. Y. Smith.

The conference with Mr. Corbin was arranged for 3 p. m. with the understanding that Mr. Corbin will contact Mr. Deming and inform him accordingly. The following people were present at this conference: Consul General Jan Galewicz, Director Roman Kutylowski, Mr. Harold Deming, Mr. Harold H. Corbin, Edward J. Bennett from Corbin, Bennett & Delehanty, Mr. W. Talmont, Mr. S. Y. Smith, and also Mr. S. C. Sztam being called in whenever necessary. During this conversation, Mr. Corbin informed those present that he received, in the forenoon, a telephone call from Mr. Littell, authorizing him to go ahead and contact the district attorney in accordance with the decision reached in our previous conference on June 2. Mr. Corbin proceeded accordingly.

The United States district attorney was not familiar with the matter, and directed Mr. Corbin to see a United States assistant district attorney, Mr. Matlak, who was specially assigned to this matter by Washington. Mr. Corbin stated that he saw the afore-mentioned district attorney and discussed the matter with him. Mr. Matlak's attitude toward the whole case was rather pleasant. He stated that the grand jury might wish to see several men from the vessel, but that his final orders were not, as yet, received. Mr. Corbin pointed out that he and his colleagues still maintain their opinion, as expressed in yesterday's conversation, with regard to the absence of the Purser Borowicz, and that their opinion proved to be correct. The district attorney was highly disappointed at not having the witness which he considered the main figure in this incident and stated that this fact can be considered as a sign of bad faith. Mr. Corbin stated that it would be most helpful if we could now state that Mr. Borowicz will be made available. This matter was argued further on lines similar to those of Thursday's conference, and finally the consul general agreed to cable the respective Polish authorities on this subject.

About this time, those present at the conference were informed by Mr. Smith and Mr. Sztam that not only extra passes were refused but also all regular passes issued to the line's representatives to go to the vessel by cutter were canceled, and that only Mr. Sztam, as lauding agent, will be permitted to board the vessel at Quarantine. Several telephone calls were made to Washington in order to ascertain what the situation is. The consul general also instructed his office to make a formal request at the customhouse for issuance of such a pass. Shortly afterward, he was informed that such pass was denied. The developments which took place with regard to the passes are covered by Mr. Smith's memorandum, copy of which is attached hereto.

We proceeded with the discussion of other matters, and in view of the fact that the passes were denied and the captain may have instructions not to give any information without the presence of the consul general, it was decided that a cable to the master, stating that full cooperation should be given the American authorities, should be sent soonest. The text was drafted, and copy of the cable is attached hereto.

The matter of what questions asked by the American authorities should be answered by the crew members was discussed again at length, and it was pointed out that the scope of the inquiry is clearly indicated in the cable and that all pertinent questions should be answered.

After the cable was dispatched, the conference was adjourned. GAL staff remained in the office in order to make all necessary arrangements for the arrival and departure of the vessel. This subject shall be covered by a separate memorandum.

MEMORANDUM

SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont.

On Saturday morning, it was estimated that N/S Batory will arrive at Quarantine at about 11:30 a. m., and will dock at pier SS, North River, at 1 to 1:30 p. m. The boarding party left on the cutter at 9 a. m. Approximately at that time, Director Kutylowski informed the undersigned that he had heard from Mr. Corbin and that Mr. Littell informed him (Mr. Corbin) that passes will at least be issued for Mr. Corbin and Consul Galewicz, with the possibility that Director Kutylowski will also obtain permission. Immigration authorities in New York, however, denied knowledge of such an order, and the cutter left in the meantime. Contact was made with Mr. Corbin, who confirmed that he heard from Mr. Littell that he has permission to board the vessel, and that as soon as such permission will be related to the New York authorities, he will contact the office in order to proceed to the Batory. A like confirmation came from the consul general, and, therefore, a tugboat was ordered to stand by at pier 1. From that time on there were forthcoming conflicting reports. The New York authority ties were not informed about such orders, and when the Embassy and Mr. Littell insisted that such permission was granted, nobody could proceed to the vessel because there was no clearance from the customshouse. About 11 a. m., all concerned gathered in Director Kutylowski's office, and were waiting for the forthcoming decisions. About the same time, we received information from United States Immigration that the question of who will be permitted, from our office as well as from the consulate, to board the vessel at pier 88 shall be decided by an officer in charge of the boarding party who is proceeding on Batory toward New York.

In order to avoid further confusion and pin down the authorities, Mr. Corbin ascertained that Mr. Pennington on board the Batory has orders to admit him and Consul General Galewicz. About 12 noon, we were informed that the vessel passed Quarantine, but a little while later information came that the ship had anchored near pier No. 6, Staten Island. About 1 p. m., information came that the vessel lifted anchor and is proceeding to pier 58. Approximately at that time, the undersigned left the office in order to go to the pier earlier and make the necessary arrangements for maintaining contact between our office and the ship, in case the telephone connection between the vessel and the office should not be established immediately. When the undersigned arrived at the pier, the ship was about to dock. The pier was guarded very closely by a great number of immigration officers, a special detachment of the border patrol, brought from the Canadian border (about 30 men), New York City police, and our Burns Agency guards. At first my pass was not recognized by the officers in charge, but after a short argument, I was allowed to board the vessel. After boarding the vessel, the first thing I did was to contact Capt. Jan Cwiklinski. Captain Cwiklinski informed me that at Quarantine a large party of American officers came on board, and that a representative from Immigration stated that he wants to take the captain's statement regarding the Eisler case. At that time, the captain was on the bridge, and could not relinquish his duties. As the officer stated that this statement should be taken immediately, the captain proceeded toward Staten Island and anchored the vessel, afterward making a full statement of all circumstances connected with Eisler's case. The captain further stated that it is his strong belief that nobody from the vessel had helped Eisler in his escape. He also stated that the authorities involved treated him kindly, and no particular incidents took place.

The remaining group of our office party with the consul general and Mr. H. Corbin then arrived. Everybody was admitted on the basis of passes issued by our office, with the exception of our public relations man, Mr. Joseph Ellner, and his assistant, Mr. Czeslaw Grzelak, and Mr. George Szczerbinski. Mr. Grzelak was later admitted, and this matter is covered by a separate memorandum.

The immigration authorities in great force were proceeding with a very thorough and strict check-up of passengers on board, and toward the end of this investigation we learned that 111 were detained and will be transported to Ellis Island for further investigation. It appeared that most of the detentions were based on the following clauses: "Doubtful visitor," "doubtful citizenship," with several cases of formalities in connection with bonding, and a few medical detentions.

Not until late in the afternoon did the Immigration start checking the crew. During this afternoon, Consul Galewicz, Director Kutylowski, and Messrs. S. Y. Smith and H. H. Corbin, in the presence of the undersigned, proceeded in taking statements from the people who had direct contact with the discovery of Mr. Eisler on board the vessel and the ensuing developments. The statements in question are attached hereto. In order to ascertain what the developments were at Quarantine, at the request of the consul general, the undersigned checked of whom the boarding party consisted. On the basis of official information obtained by Mr. S. C. Sztam, it was established that on the cutter there were 5 United States customs officers, 3 doctors, 23 immigration officers, and 24 "passes," which means that there also were 23 newspapermen and Mr. Sztam. At Quarantine, the vessel picked up two additional doctors.

When Immigration started checking the crew, it was obvious that this questioning is not limited to the usual interrogation practiced in order to ascertain the admissibility of the seamen and their rights for shore leave. The immigration officers were also asking questions with regard to Eisler's escape. were not going into any political problems; nor were they asking any details regarding the events in Southampton. It was obvious from the beginning of the interrogation that most of the crew, if not all, will be detained on board the vessel. As the developments were shaping up, it was obvious that the immigration authorities, although very strict, are ready to cooperate to a certain extent with the requirements of the vessel, and GAL as agents for the vessel. There was an acute case of a toothache on board the ship, and after certain argument the undersigned succeeded in obtaining permission for bringing a dentist on board or taking the seaman to the dentist in town for the necessary treatment. The immigration officer in charge assigned a special inspector who was waiting until after midnight hoping that there will be a chance of finding a dentist who could perform the necessary treatment. Furthermore, toward evening the Immigration, in cooperation with the undersigned and Mr. Sztam, prepared a list of people who should be admitted on board the vessel during her stay in New York. This list comprised all of our attorneys, a number of employees from the office, and also some people who had to investigate some injury and cargo claims pending in New York.

At the request of the undersigned, the immigration officer in charge consented to admit on board the vessel four merchants who usually supply the sailors with foodstuffs and goods for their families in Poland. At first, the immigration authorities were rather reluctant to grant this unusual request, but when it became known that all the crew members, including the captain, are to be detained on board, they consented to such. The following precautions were taken for the night by the United States authorities about 11:30 p. m.: The vessel was guarded both on the pier and at the gate by the border patrol and the police, with one police motorboat standing by. The immigration officers were in charge and also the men from Burns Agency were placed at different points on the pier and on the vessel. It was also requested by the immigration authorities that all the exits from the vessel be closed, leaving only one entrance and exit in the immediate vicinity of the gangplank at which several watchmen were placed. At that time no restrictions were applied to the line's officials, who were permitted to go ashore and return whenever necessary.

It should be noted that the misspelling of the name of one seaman caused quite considerable confusion during the interrogation of the crew. At a certain moment the immigration inspectors started to look for a crew member whom they called "Nidicki," whose name did not appear on the crew list. The immigration inspectors were particularly disturbed by this because on quarantine they asked the captain whether the manifest and the crew list are complete and exact. The captain answered this question by stating that they were prepared by people in whom he had full confidence. The immigration authorities requested that the man be produced immediately, and, if not produced, they will stop interrogation of the crew, take off all of the crew members from the vessel, and make a search on board. At that moment it occurred to the captain that it may be a misspelling of the name, and that there was a new crew member "Hlodnicki," a ship delegate of the Polish Transport Workers Union, who was already interrogated by Immigration. After checking all particulars, the immigration inspectors admitted that a misspelling of the name took place, and proceeded with further investigation.

At this particular moment it should be mentioned that from the time the boarding party came on board the captain was confronted with the difficult problem of handling the press. Our press relations officer, Mr. Joseph Ellner, was not permitted to go on board the vessel, and, therefore, the captain was in this respect on his own, with whatever help could be given him by the undersigned. It should be stated that, although the newspapermen were very insistent in having a statement from the captain, they fully understood his position as taken from the very beginning—that is, that the matter is being investigated by the United States authorities, and that it would be improper on the part of the captain to issue any statements as long as such investigation is in progress. In the meantime, in connection with many rumors with regard to the seizure of the vessel, the captain made several very fortunate statements, such as "I am still in command," "Business as usual," and alike. His calmness and friendly attitude toward the press won him admiration and respect on the part of the newspapermen.

About 11 p. m. we received final word from Immigration that the whole crew, including the captain, is being detained. There was a short argument as to who should announce this decision to the crew, the captain or the representatives of the line. The immigration officer in charge of crew interrogation did not wish to leave the vessel until such announcement be made, and finally the captain ordered that this decision of Immigration be announced in his name by his press officer. The reaction of the crew, although indignant, was calm and understanding. Many crew members proceeded with their usual work.

It was agreed that the undersigned will remain on board the vessel overnight, and will be relieved by someone from the office on Sunday morning. There were no particular events after midnight. The undersigned brought some newspapers for the crew, tried to explain the situation to the crew delegate, and so on.

M/S "BATORY,"
New York, N. Y., June 4, 1949.

I have been captain of the M/S Batory for 3 years and 2 months. Before this, I spent the war years in Holland. My complete history is in the New York files of the Line.

The M/S Batory sailed on May 6, 1949, from New York, and it was not until May 12 that I first saw Eisler personally.

On the 6 of May, about 3, the pilot left the ship and we proceeded further. About 5 or 5:30, the purser reported that there is a stowaway on board. He told me the name, but this name did not mean anything to me as I had never seen or heard of Mr. Eisler. I told him to make an official report and send this report to the officer on the bridge, and to make an official entry in the logbook.

After 2 or 3 days, the purser finished checking all passengers in first and tourist class. The purser sent a telegram to GAL, New York. In this telegram was mentioned that a stowaway is on board, and this stowaway has declared that he will pay for his passage and he is going to Germany. The purser then got a telegram from GAL asking the name of the stowaway. He gave the name, and then we got another telegram from GAL asking the purser to give full details.

We sent the details about the stowaway.

On the 12th of May, midnight, I got several telegrams from the press. Meantime, I met Mr. Yaffe, correspondent, who intended to send a report about Mr. Eisler to the American press. To avoid confusion, I called Eisler because he (Mr. Yaffe) was writing in his report that he had an interview with Mr. Eisler. I called Eisler in the presence of the purser and Mr. Yaffe, and asked Eisler if he agrees with the things which are in Mr. Yaffe's report. He said yes. The report mentioned that he (Eisler) came on board ship after paying 25 cents for a ticket, and nobody gave him help. Mr. Yaffe sent this report. This was the first time I met Mr. Eisler.

I sent a telegram to GAL in Gdynia on the same day. The contents were that Gerhardt Eisler, political refugee, was discovered on board the ship as a stowaway. Please inform authorities and give any further instructions. I also sent a telegram to GAL London asking that Director Antkowiak and the Polish consul be personally present on board the ship on arrival at Southampton. I got a telegram from the Polish consul Ziemlowski to keep Eisler in custody and not to hand him over to any authorities before their arrival. Then the story about Southampton which you gentlemen already know.

Question by Mr. Corbin. Was the ship out of territorial waters when Eisler was first discovered?

Answer by the Captain. I am not sure of the limit, but I think we were out of territorial waters.

Question. What is the normal procedure for handling stowaways?

Answer. The normal procedure for handling stowaways is to deliver them in Gdynia to Polish authorities for their decision.

Question. Why did you intend taking him to Gdynia?

Answer. Because everybody refuses to accept a stowaway at the next port of call.

Question. Did you know anything about Eisler paying for his ticket?

Answer. I knew nothing about Eisler paying for his passage before receiving report from the purser. That was in the purser's hands. I had no knowledge of who Eisler really was until May 12 when I got the information from telegrams and from the radio. We put him in the hospital as we were filled to capacity and it was the only available space.

Question. Who first reported that Mr. Eisler was on board?

Answer. Mr. Borowicz gave me the first report. Mr. Tibaek was the first man to speak to Eisler.

Question. Was Eisler searched for anything? Did he produce a 25-cent ticket?

Answer. I don't know.

Today, the ship made Quarrantine about 10:45 a.m., and there came on board about 50 people. The immigration man in a green uniform and another man talked with me on the bridge. They showed me a list of the passengers and crew members on the ship, and asked me if it was my signature, and whether I knew if it was correct. I said yes after explaining to them that the list was compiled by men in whom I had faith. I told one of the men who later questioned me in the officer's smoking room the story as I told you above, and produced cables and the extract from the logbook. He took copies of these with him. He also questioned Mr. Tibaek, Danish assistant purser, and Mr. Bluszcz, the chief wireless operator.

Question. Where did Eisler stay during the trip? Answer. He made the whole trip in the hospital.

The Immigration man asked me. Can you say the same things as told us before the Grand Jury?

Captain. Yes, of course. It is the truth.

Question by Mr. Corbin. Did anyone say that they would come back to see you later?

Answer. No appointments were made to come back later, and no instructions were given. I was told that I could move around as I pleased, but, as usual, I have to wait for the examination of the crew.

MR. JERZY PIASECKI, ASSISTANT PURSER

I was working in the office before. Last couple of years I was chief steward on American boats. Before the war, for a few years after the war for a total of about 12 years. I am sailing since May of last year. Interviewed about an hour and a half ago by immigration official. I do not know his name but know his face because he used to come aboard M/S Batory. The conversation was about our stowaway from the last trip, Gerhard Eisler.

I told him all that I knew which was a little more than the newspapers. The day of leaving New York, 4:30 p. m., the chief steward started giving table tickets and he came to the desk and asked to see the captain and I asked him on what kind of business and he said he (Eisler) had no ticket as he was a stowaway on board ship. I took him to the purser and later orders were received from purser to accommodate him because he was paying first-class fare. I took the money and tried to accommodate him. I had to accommodate him in the hospital but he was getting his food in the first-class dining room and I told him that he was supposed to pay the lowest first-class fare of $227.50. He accepted and paid the money. Next morning I went to the chief purser, got a receipt and gave it to him. He paid in cash and I saw three $100 bills when he was paying. He received chief purser's receipt for cash and I stated that was only security money for his passage.

No ticket was issued since we have no tickets to issue on the ship. We only gave him a receipt for first-class passage, minimum rate.

When I took this money from him and gave him the receipt, I knew who he was because he made a statement to us as to why he boarded the ship as a stowaway. He said that he could not get passage on any line across the Atlantic because of the season and he figured that he could pay the passage at sea. He paid 25 cents, visitor's fee, and came up to the purser at 4:30 that same afternoon.

He came on the day of departure from New York which was the sailing date May 6 at about 4:30 p.m. I was not interested in how he got on the ship. Due to the fact that the passengers were watching New York's skyline at departure, it was about four and a half hours after he came and revealed himself. The pilot left the ship at 3:05 p. m. and he reported about 1 hour and a half later.

I told the story to the immigration men today just about the same way and they did not ask about the previous purser. They asked if the purser received any telegrams prior to departure or the day when we left and I said I did not know but doubted it very much whether they did receive any. Every mail on the date of departure is handled through the purser's office and we would know if his papers were delivered.

If he had any baggage I did not know. According to what I saw at South-ampton, he had a suitcase with him, a book, a hat, and something else, but nobody was sure whether it was his or another passenger's because there was another passenger in the hospital with him and the suitcase might have belonged to the other passenger. There was one deportee in the hospital with him and they were accommodated in the same place.

Asked why we did not put his name down and all particulars in our confirmation, we stated just one stowaway. We could not find in our files any tele grams of previous stowaways because according to my knowledge we did not have any for a long time so we just stated one stowaway.

Nothing was asked about grand-jury proceedings and nothing was said between us about ships sailing on Monday or whether I got to go with it or not. No further instructions received and they did not say whether they would be back to see me.

POUL TIBAEK, SECOND PURSER

On arrival at Quarantine, I was called to the captain's cabin about the statement to be given to the manifests and about 10 minutes later an immigration official asked me to give statements in the Eisler case. The same men interviewed me that interviewed Mr. Piasecki. One man talked with me. Can't remember what was said when I first saw Eisler on board.

I said he came down to the purser's office about 4:30 on May 6 but dinner was not served yet. When asked at what distance the ship was at sea then I replied about 50 miles at sea but I am not a ship expert. Eisler came to us stating that he did not have a ticket but had money and was quite willing to pay for his passage, if possible. I made it clear to him that he was considered a stowaway. I took him to the chief purser, Mr. Borowicz, introduced him and told him the story. I had never heard the name "Eisler" before.

As a seaman aboard the ship for 2 years, I very rarely read the newspapers and never heard the name before. When taken to the chief purser, Eisler was informed that no first-class accommodations were left over, and he paid the cheapest rate in first-class and he was accommodated in the hospital.

I became acquainted with the name one day before we reached Southampton. A United States citizen going to Copenhagen has asked me whether there was anyone on board called Eisler because he thought that he had heard mentioned on the loudspeaker the name Eisler. I told him that I did not hear that on the loudspeaker and I did not call anybody and the passenger told me about Eisler and that was the first time I heard about the stowaway.

The official did not even ask me the name of the purser. He asked me some questions about a passenger called "Yaffe," an American journalist. Asked if I saw Eisler in Yaffe's company at any time, I answered that I did not notice but I heard that Mr. Yaffe gave an interview to Copenhagen newspapermen on arrival at Copenhagen telling them that he knew Eisler quite well but did not want to make any story until it was official.

When asked what cabin Mr. Yaffe occupied, I went to the purser's office and looked up the passenger list and showed him that Mr. Yaffe occupied No. 25 and after that he wanted me to get hold the steward and stewardess attending cabin No. 25. I did so and they made their statements in my presence. The cabin steward said that he did not see Mr. Eisler together with Mr. Yaffe in the cabin and the stewardess said she did not know Mr. Yaffe's name or Mr. Eisler's name or know them by face. He asked me who else was working in the office and I told him Mr. Piaseski and Mr. Suszka. Mr. Suszka only understands Polish and German and that he was not present when Eisler appeared in the purser's office for the first time. I told him nobody else was there and he said how about Mr. Moczulski, was he there? I answered that he was working in the tourist class and crew office and that he is never in the first-class purser's office. He wanted me to get hold of Mr. Moczulski and I did and he made a statement but I was not present and that is all that happened.

I asked him whether there would be any consequences toward my position and he answered that he will have to ask his boss in Washington and he expected to know for sure about Monday morning whether I have to stay over to appear before the grand jury. Mr. Tibaek and Mr. Piasecki were the first men to speak to the immigration official.

When asked why we did not telegraph Mr. Eisler's name to the New York office earlier than we did, I said that I can prove from the ship's files that for 2 years it was a matter of routine that we telegraphed New York the total number of passengers embarked in New York and further details. I said that we telegraphed about 3 or 4 days after the ship sailed and he did not ask to see the records. I told him that it was only a question of the total number of passengers on board and no names since it was not the practice to telegraph the names of passengers but only the total number of passengers, and, therefore, it was normal not to mention Eisler's name, merely describing him as a stowaway.

I prepared the message myself and submitted it to the chief purser who signed it and he took it to the captain for signature and then to the wireless station. This last information about the preparation and signing and sending of the telegram was not asked of me but I just gave this for your information, and it can be proved that telegrams are always sent 3 or 4 days after we sail, Nothing was said to the steward and stewardess except who Mr. Yaffe has been seeing on the voyage.

Witnesses showed us carbon copies of receipt No. G-039002 dated "on sea May 6, 1949," and was signed by the chief purser reading: "$227.50 received from Mr. Gerhard Eisler (stowaway) for passage paid from New York to Gdynia in first-class accom."

ZYGMUNT BLUSZCZ, CHIEF RADIO OFFICER

I spoke to a gentleman who said he was from the United States Government and he asked if I knew when Gerhard Eisler came on board. Of course I said I knew about Eisler at the moment the CBS correspondent came to the wireless room with some messages to be sent. Entrusted in secrecy, I cannot divulge any messages and they said we know about them because we got them from the New York office.

The first time I realized who Gerhart Eisler was when Mr. Yaffee came to me with these messages to be sent. He asked me if anybody from the crew knew Gerhart Eisler and I said I do not know but I do not think so because our knowledge of English is limited and we do not mix with the passengers. The first knowledge of it to most of the crew was probably when the ship came to Southampton.

Then a conversation ensued where the interrogator stated that he knows some Poles and that he was taking some course in Scotland with these Poles. I would like very much to cooperate but I do not know anything about the case.

There was no indication of my appearing before the grand jury and nothing was said about my not sailing with the ship on Monday.

He asked me if we on board expected some representatives of the United States to come on board on this arrival and I said we supposed that someone would appear figuring that you would come on board on the instructions of your Government but I told him that we had no instructions from the ship.

PAWEL MOCZULSKI, CLERK IN TOURIST CLASS PURSER'S OFFICE

I was interviewed after docking and they asked me about Eisler, whom he met, saw, and associated with and because I am in tourist class I do not know what happened in first class. I did not know anything about Eisler being on ship until the ship reached Southampton. I was asked why since I am agriculture educated did I pursue the calling of a seaman and I answered because I like the sea. I have no political views since my only interest is in my wife and children and I answered that they are beautiful and that is all his job. There was nothing said about the grand jury.

I wanted permission to go ashore and they asked me why am I so interested in leaving the ship, and I said I wanted to go to the theater and have some entertainment.

Nothing was said to me about my return with the ship on Monday and I did not ask either.

MEMORANDUM

SUNDAY, JUNE 5, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont.

On Sunday morning, the vessel resumed her normal activities. It is understood that unloading and loading of the vessel was proceeding normally with only certain difficulties resulting from the fact that the cargo officers and the crew members were not allowed to go to the pier. The undersigned left the vessel again in order to bring the newspapers for the crew, and also contacted the immigration office in charge in order to make sure that the moment a dentist is found, the ailing seaman will be permitted to proceed for treatment. Small groups of newspapermen were running about but they did not have any particular news to follow-up.

About 10:15 a. m., Mr. T. Avery, Assistant Chief, Investigation Section, from Immigration, approached the undersigned and informed me that on orders from Washington, Immigration will interrogate the crew once again. I argued with him, but he stated that nothing can be done, so I informed the captain accordingly. I also informed Director R. Kutylowski in the office, who in turn informed the consul general and Mr. Corbin.

At the same time, Mr. Avery made a statement, off the record, regarding the admissibility of Mr. Grzelak. The above is covered by a separate memorandum.

At 10:30 a.m., Mr. Avery came back with an Immigration man and asked the captain to make all the necessary arrangements for the interrogation of the crew. It was agreed that the checking of the crew will start at 11 a.m. After making arrangements with the immigration inspectors, the captain instructed the crew's delegate, Mr. Klusek, that the crew should be informed about the Immigration order, and go to the tourist class dining room in groups of five from each department in accordance with the crew list. Mr. Klusek objected, and stated that he believes the vessel should not permit the American authorities to subject the crew to another custom's investigation, that such an investigation was made yesterday and none should be made today. He requested to be given time to contact the Polish consul general, and started to call him up. Later I learned that the consul general overruled his objections. In the meantime, the announcement was made to the crew over the loudspeakers by the press relations officer, and at 11 a. m., Immigration started interrogating the crew. As we ascertained, the questions which were asked the crew were strictly connected with the Eisler case, namely with regard to his boarding and discovery on the vessel. There also were questions when and what was heard by the crew with regard to Eisler being on board the vessel. The investigation which was ordered lasted for several hours. About 4 p. m., the crew delegate, Mr. Klusek, informed Mr. Smith and the undersigned that Assistant Pursers Tibaek and Piasecki are being questioned and detained in separate rooms. The same information was brought by the purser's clerk, Mr. J. Tews.

Mr. Smith and I immediately went to the cabins indicated by the crew members in order to protest, but we found them empty. We quickly went to the tourist class dining room and saw two inspectors taking Mr. Tibaek and Mr. Piasecki toward the exits leading off the vessel. We stopped them near the first-class purser's office and asked them what they intended to do with these two men. The inspector in charge stated that they are being taken to 70 Columbus Avenue for further interrogation and they should be returned in an hour or so. They also stated that one man, namely, Chief Steward M. Czekalski, was already taken to 70 Columbus Avenue. To this, we pointed out that it is wholly improper to take the detained seamen from the vessel without informing the captain, who receipted such seamen on the detention order signed at the request of the immigration authorities. We stated that in such case, the immigration inspectors should notify the captain, and if requested, sign a statement releasing the captain from the obligation resulting from his signing the detention order. The inspector in charge agreed that this would be the proper procedure, but as the men are only going to be away for an hour or so, no statement to this effect seems to be necessary. The captain agreed with this. The two men were taken away making a total of three at 70 Columbus Avenue. Director Kutylowski was informed about these developments and took part in the discussion with the immigration inspectors.

Afterward, we summoned Mr. H. H. Corbin and Consul General Galewicz, asking them to come over to the ship, in view of these new developments. About $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours passed and the men still had not returned. We considered calling up the immigration authorities and finding out what the present status of this matter is. Before we could phone, an immigration inspector, who was present when Mr. Tibaek and Mr. Piasecki were taken away, came back and when we asked what happened to these two men, he stated that they are still at 70 Columbus Avenue. After a while, this same inspector returned with an armed immigration inspector in uniform, called the undersigned aside, and informed him that he is here to ask the captain and the Hospital Steward Bojanowski to accompany him to 70 Columbus Avenue. I stated that I will pass on his request to the captain, and went to inform the party consisting of Consul Galewicz, Director Kutylowski, H. H. Corbin, and the captain, of this new development. A discussion of this situation followed during which the captain pointed out that he would not, under any conditions, leave the vessel with an armed and uniformed guard. I immediately went to see the inspector in charge, and he (inspector) explained that the guard was brought because the Steward Bojanowski was to be taken to 70 Columbus Avenue at the same time, and the inspector agreed that the captain will proceed separately, only with him and 1 in his own private car.

I informed the captain and the rest of our party about this. At that time, I learned that it was argued whether the captain should comply with the request of the immigration authorities to go over to 70 Columbus Avenue. If they wished to interrogate him, they should come over on board the vessel on which the captain was held as a crew member without the privilege of shore leave. Furthermore, the captain had his doubts whether he should proceed at all in view of the fact that the solemn promise given to him by the inspectors, that the three men will be returned to the ship within 1 hour, was not kept. Consul Galewicz challenged both the advisability of the captain going to 70 Columbus Avenue at all, and also the possibility of him going together with the immigration inspector. A lengthy discussion followed in which Mr. Corbin stated several times that he does not see anything wrong in the captain proceeding to 70 Columbus Avenue to give the statements required to the immigration authorities, and saw nothing in going in the company of the immigration inspector, Consul Galewicz stated that as a matter of prestige of the vessel and the Polish flag, he does not think it's possible for the captain to go to the immigration office in the company of anybody else but himself (Consul Galewicz). The consul declared that he is willing to undertake to bring the captain within 15 minutes to 70 Columbus Avenue. At this point, the undersigned stated that in accordance with American regulations, the captain, as a seaman, without privilege of shore leave, may be taken at any time to Ellis Island, and then remain in their custody and at their disposal. Under the circumstances, it seemed advisable to comply with the immigration request or they may use enforcement measures. Director Kutylowski personally discussed this matter with the inspector in charge. Shortly afterward, the inspector informed Consul Galewicz that it is agreeable for him that the captain proceeds with Consul Galewicz in his car, and that the immigration inspectors will follow them. After this, the party consisting of Consul Galewicz, Captain Cwiklinski and two immigration inspectors (in business suits) left the vessel.

The investigation of the crew was proceeding orderly and there were still seamen remaining for checking. About 7 p. m., the questioning of the crew was finished, and the investigating party left the vessel.

As no word was, as yet, received from the party at 70 Columbus Avenue, about 10 p. m., the undersigned and Mr. Satam, on Director Kutylowski's instructions, went to contact the inspector in charge at 70 Columbus Avenue in order to ascertain the present status of this matter. We were informed that the investigation of those taken to the immigration offices is finished and that they are about to proceed to the vessel. It was understood that this meant the end of the investigation, for the time being, and that the vessel and the crew were cleared. About 10:30 p. m. the party from 70 Columbus Avenue returned and confirmed the information obtained over the telephone. In addition, the consul general stated that he brought Captain Cwiklinski to 70 Columbus Avenue without any escort and was present when he was questioned, and also was permitted to look through the statement prepared. He considered these facts very gratifying.

From the above, we understood that no further action on the part of the immigration authorities is contemplated, and the vessel may be permitted to depart as scheduled. Nevertheless, all precautionary measures which were taken in connection with the possibility of shortages in the crew in case some men were called before the grand jury, were maintained until the vessel's departure. It was decided that a statement to be made by the captain be prepared to be distributed to the press just before the departure of the vessel.

It should be pointed out that in the course of the day several statements were made by immigration inspectors which indicated that the vessel may be permitted to depart as scheduled. They were checking arrangements for the clearance and taking draft of the vessel, as well as time required for checking the passengers boarding the ship.

It also should be stated that the merchants usually coming to the vessel were admitted and a number of packages were purchased by the seamen for their families.

MEMORANDUM

MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont.

On Monday, the captain's press release was prepared in the office, and also the sick seamen, one man and one woman, proceeded with the immigration guards for treatment. The clearance of the vessel was taken care of on board. No further incidents were noted.

A press conference was arranged for in the American bar, and the newspapermen were invited, over the loudspeakers. There were about 50 newspapermen and photographers, and the captain's press interview should be considered as very successful. Copy of the captain's statement is attached.

The departure of the vessel was delayed for about 30 minutes because of

The departure of the vessel was delayed for about 30 minutes because of additional mail delivered by the post office, and delay in checking the passengers by immigration.

The vessel left New York at about 12:31 p.m.

Now that my ship, the M/S Batory, my crew and I are leaving on our regular schedule for Southampton, Copenhagen, and Gdynia, I feel compelled to express my gratitude to the American press and the American people for their fair and temperate attitude. The fact that both the press and the American public treated the incident of our return to these shores on our peaceful mission with complete understanding, and, I may say, with a characteristic sense of humor, is to me proof that the more than two centuries of sympathetic ties of friendship between America and my country, Poland, cannot be dissolved by an incident in which we played an entirely accidental part.

Jan Cwiklinski, Master, M/S "Batory."

MEMORANDUM

June 10, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont. Subject: Legal assistance.

The press releases and action taken by the immigration authorities and the district attorney with regard to the company's executives resulted in the necessity of employing attorneys who could give all the advice necessary. In the very beginning of the case, our legal advisers, Messrs. Haight, Deming, Gardner, Poor & Havens, were advised about the situation, and, at first, were assisting Mr. Talmout in gathering all the necessary laws, and in checking with him his opinion, forwarded to the Embassy in Washington, with regard to the status of a stowaway on board the vessel. Later, Mr. Deming advised our people, called before the grand jury, as to his opinion on the subject. At that time, it was agreed that all the aspects of this case will be thoroughly examined, and a brief of the legal American and international regulations which may be involved, will be prepared. Also, the necessity of retaining a criminal attorney with regard to problems involving criminal law, were discussed.

About a week before the arrival of the vessel, the Embassy informed our office that they had retained Mr. Norman D. Littell, as adviser to the Embassy

About a week before the arrival of the vessel, the Embassy informed our office that they had retained Mr. Norman D. Littell, as adviser to the Embassy and the line in this matter. It developed that Mr. Littell is a good acquaintance of Mr. Deming's and that they expect perfect cooperation. The above mentioned agreed that Mr. H. H. Corbin should be retained as a third counsel.

A number of conferences covering the subject were held, and during the stay of the ship in port, Mr. Deming, who remained in his office with his entire staff ready to start any required action, was in constant contact with the nearly on board the vessel. Mr. H. H. Corbin stayed on board the ship for a considerable length of time, or was in contact with our Mr. Talmont. Mr. Littell was in Washington representing the line and the vessel before the central authorities. At the time of departure, both Mr. Corbin and Mr. Littell were on board the vessel.

After the departure, Mr. Talmont personally informed Mr. Deming about all the developments on board the ship. It should be noted that on Saturday, June 4, 1949, the necessity of informing the representatives of our underwriters, John C. Monroe, was brought up. At that time, Mr. Deming advised that we should postpone this action until some further developments in this matter.

MEMORANDUM

JUNE 10, 1949.

To: Director R. Kutylowski. From: Mr. W. Talmont.

Subject: Precautionary measures.

In view of the possibility that the captain and a few crew members of M/S Batory may be detained in New York for a hearing before the grand jury, we felt it important to make arrangements that the vessel leave the port of New York on schedule, and, therefore, a number of people were contacted in order to keep them as replacements if necessary.

98330—50---pt. 3-----10

We finally had standing by two captains with suitable diplomas, and also a man who could serve as assistant purser. These people were standing by from Friday, June 3, to Monday, June 6, inclusive.

The respective expenses were charged against the vessel.

It is understood that an exhibit A is not required to be filed for each of the employees specified in the answer to 9 (b).

EXHIBIT E

Registrant's agreements with its agents in the United States and Canada for publicity in connection with passenger and cargo service are merely routine business dealings to advertise the services of the Gdynia America Line, and it would therefore be unduly burdensome to file all the correspondence connected therewith, much of it being telephone and telegram arrangements. If further information other than given above and in item 11 (c) is required, it will be furnished promptly upon request.

The undersigned swear(s) or affirm(s) that he has (they have) read the information set forth in this statement and the attached exhibits and that he is (they are) familiar with the contents thereof and that such contents are in their entirety true and accurate to the best of his (their) knowledge and belief, except that the undersigned make(s) no representation as to the truth or accuracy of the information contained in Exhibit A insofar as such information is not within his (their) personal knowledge.

No filing was made in connection with the radio broadcasts referred to in 11 (a). The broadcasts were not political propaganda, but merely advertised the services of registrant. The broadcasts over Station WHBI, Shipman Street, Newark, N. J., were in the Polish language and delivered on Sundays. The broadcasts over Station WHOM, New York City, consisted of 5 minutes each Sunday night in the Italian language and consisted of straight advertising material regarding the United States of America-Italian service of Gdynia American Shipping Lines, Ltd.

The other publications mentioned in 11 (b) were not political propaganda, but purely commercial.

EXHIBIT A

No exhibit A is being filed herewith because all persons have been covered in previous filings. It is understood that an exhibit A is not required to be filed for each of the employees specified in the answer to 9(b).

EXHIBIT E

Registrant's agreements with its agents in the United States and Canada for publicity in connection with passenger and cargo service are merely routine business dealings to advertise the services of the Gdynia America Line, and it would therefore be unduly burdensome to file all the correspondence connected therewith, much of it being telephone and telegram arrangements. If further information other than given above and in item 11 (c) is required, it will be furnished promptly upon request.

The undersigned swear(s) or affirm(s) that he has (they have) read the information set forth in this statement and the attached exhibits and that he is (they are) familiar with the contents thereof and that such contents are in their entirety true and accurate to the best of his (their) knowledge and belief, except that the undersigned make(s) no representation as to the truth or accuracy of the information contained in Exhibit A insofar as such information is not within his (their) personal knowledge.

Registrant's agreements with its agents in the United States and Canada for publicity in connection with passenger and cargo service are merely routine business dealings to advertise the service of the Gdynia America Line, and it would therefore be unduly burdensome to file all the correspondence connected therewith, much of it being telephone and telegram arrangements. APPENDIX VIII

EXCERPTS FROM THE STATEMENT OF ROBERT C. ALEXANDER, ASSISTANT CHIEF, VISA DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF STATE

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION

United States Senate,
Staff of the Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization of the Committee on the Judiciary, Washington, D. C., Thursday, July 15, 1948.

The staff of the subcommittee met at 10 a.m., pursuant to call, in the Senate District of Columbia Committee room, the Capitol, Thomas J. Davis, committee investigator, presiding.

Present: Thomas J. Davis; Richard Arens, staff director; Fred M. Mesmer, investigator.

We have talked about the persons who have come in ostensibly as visitors, but who are not visitors. We have talked about persons who have come in on transit certificates.

Now, are there any other categories of persons that you would like to express yourself on?

Mr. Alexander. Yes; there is another category that has given us considerable difficulty. That is what we call the international organization aliens. They are covered by the International Organizations Immunities Act of 1945. And those persons are coming to this country as nonimmigrants. They are not subject to exclusion under our laws, even though we may know that their coming here would not be in our best interests.

And the question has arisen as to whether or not we could refuse to receive them even if they have no documents to permit them to go to any other country, and whether we are not going to build up in this country within the next few years a large number of people who have no sympathy with us or our form of government, and yet who are brought into this country under cover of this International Organizations Immunities Act; and whom we can't get rid of, because no country will take them back.

It is not because they were not citizens of any foreign country when they come here, but the foreign country may say, "We don't want them back." So that ends it.

Mr. Arens. To what extent is that practice being indulged in at the present time?

Mr. Alexander. Well, it is to an alarming extent, I would say; to my mind, at least. Because every few days I see a case of that kind.

I think that the remedy for it, if you are getting to that, is that the international organization concerned should be required to assume responsibility for getting such a person out of this country when his purpose in coming is accomplished, or when they discharge him, or when he severs his connection with them, or when his period of employment is ended.

Mr. Arens. Mr. Alexander, by the "international organization" do you refer to the United Nations Organization?

Mr. Alexander. Yes, and all of the others. The United Nations Organization, particularly, because they have a headquarters site here. Others because they hold meetings here.

Mr. Arens. What is the extent of the problem? You have said, as I understand it, that it is a very great problem. Could you give us an estimate in the form of numbers as to the extent of the problem?

Mr. Alexander. Well, I suppose there are maybe 15,000 or 20,000 people around who are connected in some way with the international organizations and the delegations and their families, personnel, staffs, servants, secretaries, and so on. They are connected with the various governments and the central secretariats.

Mr. Arens. Now, these persons, as I understand it, are separate and distinct from, or are in a separate category from, the officials of governments?

Mr. Alexander. Yes, separate from the embassy or legation.

Mr. Arens. In other words, government X brings into the United States, as part of the official representation of that government certain officials.

Mr. ALENANDER. That is right.

Mr. Arens. And that is another matter we want to interrogate you on in a moment. But I just wanted to clarify the record that the problem you are discussing is separate and distinct from the problem of officials of governments.

Mr. ALEXANDER. That is right. Separate from regular diplomatic and consular personnel.

Mr. Davis. Can you think off-hand of other international organizations where that problem arises, other than the United Nations Organization? How about the International Labor Organization?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes. But, of course, their headquarters are not in this country.

Mr. Davis. Don't they have an office in this country?

Mr. ALEXANDER. They may have, and they do hold meetings in this country, but I don't know that there is any large number of people coming to the International Labor Organization that we couldn't require to leave the country. other words, they do not have a central secretariat or permanent headquarters in this country.

Mr. Davis. How about the International Refugee Organization?

Mr. ALEXANDER. The IRO? They don't have an office in this country which would bring in people.

UNRRA was the earliest and greatest offender, and there are some people still here who came in under, or were connected with, UNRRA, and we can't send them anywhere.

Mr. Arens. Why?

Mr. ALEXANDER. No country will have them, or they can't be found, or they are with some other international organization.

Mr. Arens. Mr. Alexander, will you elaborate on what you mean by "the problem"? Is it confined to the question of eventually deporting people who will not leave, or is it the problem tied up with the activity of the person when he arrives in this country?

Mr. Alexander. It is both a security problem, and a question of deportability.

Mr. Arens. Would you elaborate upon both phases of that?

Mr. Alexander. Well, for instance, the secretariat of the United Nations may hire an interpreter, or a translator. This person may be highly objectionable to the United States, but we can't stop him from coming here if we follow the immigration laws. We may have reason to believe that he is coming here to engage in activities which would be outside the scope of his duties with the United Nations, but we still can't stop him. We can't go in and lay out before the Secretary General a lot of intelligence information, disclosing sources, to show that this is the kind of person who should not be allowed to come here.

Mr. Arens. Well, now, is this person exempt from the provision of the law which excludes people coming here against the interests of the United States?

Is he outside those provisions of the law? Mr. ALEXANDER. That is right.

Mr. Arens. What makes him outside those provisions of the law?

Mr. ALEXANDER. The International Organizations Immunities Act, and the United Nations Headquarters Site Agreement.

Mr. Arens. What legislation would be necessary, in your opinion, first of all with reference to not permitting undesirables to come here, and secondly, with reference to procedures for expulsion of those who have already gotten here, whom we deem undesirable, or who have overstayed their time?

Mr. Alexander. Well, as long as you are going to keep the United Nations headquarters site in this country, then it boils down to a question of whether the United Nations couldn't take upon itself some burden of assuming responsibility for the activities of these people, of cooperating with this government as a host nation to see that they do not encourage the bringing into our territory of people whose admission would be clearly prejudicial to the interests of this country, and of getting them out of this country when the time comes.

Mr. Arens. And would you repeat again the figure as to the persons who have been brought in? I don't mean the persons who are necessarily subversive, but the aggregate number, good and bad.

Mr. ALEXANDER. It is up in the thousands, I would say, including the United Nations and its various subsidiary organizations. It runs into the thousands, for all the international organizations concerned.

Mr. Arens. Do you have any information on the number of persons who have been brought in by the United Nations Organization, or by any other international organization that to your mind are undesirable from the standpoint of the best interests of the United States?

Mr. Alexander. Not definitely. There are a number of them. Mr. Arens. I say, do you have any information as to the number? Mr. Alexander. I estimate that there may be several hundred.

Mr. Arens. What is the basis for that opinion, or judgment of yours?

Mr. ALEXANDER. The number of cases which come to my attention, and a realization that there may be some that did not come to my attention

Mr. Arens. How do they get to your attention?

Mr. Alexander. In connection with the issuance of visas. The consuls don't like to issue visas in such cases. They believe that these people are coming here for purposes which are not compatible with the interests of the United States. And I am not talking about a person who will come here to represent his government before the United Nations and who will get up and speak against the policies of the United States Government. That should be permitted. I believe that the Members of the United Nations, in order to function, must have the freedom to express opinions and views in the forum and Council of the United Nations, whether we agree or not.

But what I am talking about is a person who uses the United Nations as a front or a cover or a blind for carrying on subversive activities against this country, and where we have to go ahead and spread on the record all of the proof and disclose sources of our information in order to stop it.

Mr. Arens. What is the nature of the subversive activity of which you speak, Mr. Alexander?

Mr. ALEXANDER. I have in mind people who are believed to be subversive agents, and who have been refused visas in different places around the world.

Mr. Davis. I believe there were two cases that reached the newspapers about reporters who came in who were undesirable.

Mr. Alexander. Yes; and we have a number of those questionable reporters. But in order to make a case before the United Nations, we would have to spread on the record a lot of intelligence information; which, for the reasons I have stated, we can't do.

Mr. Arens. Approximately how many persons of a subversive character, in your judgment, have been brought in by the United Nations?

Mr. Alexander. It may run as high as several hundred. The number I have seen certainly can't be all of them.

Mr. Arens. And where are those persons located, in general?

Mr. Alexander. They are theoretically supposed to be located in New York, but it is possible that you will find them in other parts of the country.

Mr. Arens. Under the present law, what check or restraint does this Government have upon those persons, these several hundred subversives who have been brought in, in your estimate, as to their activities?

Mr. Alexander. Well it is a very difficult thing for the security agencies of the Government to keep track of them, and to watch those people.

Mr. Arens. Are they required to report, under the Alien Registration Act?

Mr. Alexander. No; I don't believe they are.

Mr. Arens. Has this situation been brought to the attention of the policy making officials of the Department of State?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes; it is being considered there. We have considered it, and we are still considering it. We are wrestling with the problem. And it is under serious consideration and has been for some time.

Mr. Arens. By policy-making officials, I mean those officials—perhaps not the Secretary of State himself—who are on the highest brackets of policy in the Department.

Mr. ALEXANDER. That is right.

Mr. Arens. Has this situation been discussed with them, with the end in view of seeing what could be done from the standpoint of doing what is possible through diplomatic negotiation?

Mr. Alexander, No; it hasn't reached that point. But the whole problem is under serious consideration with a view to determining what we can do about it.

On the one hand, we want to encourage and help the United Nations. We want to see them here and have them in this country. We want to be a good host to them. But on the other hand, we do not feel that they should be allowed to abuse that privilege and right. I don't think they want to do it. I think in many instances, in most instances, they do not know that they are being used.

Mr. Arens. Who doesn't know about it?

Mr. ALEXANDER. The United Nations itself. They take the position that why should they consider the question of whether or not we would prefer that certain persons do not come in? After all we have no censorship over the people that they bring in, and we shouldn't have, and yet our security is a factor that we must consider.

Mr. Arens. Before we get on to the question of the officials that are brought in by the governments themselves, foreign governments who maintain embassies in the United States, I would suggest that we get on with the second phase of this problem, namely, your suggestions as to changes in the law, or procedure which you would recommend as desirable in order to expel those persons from the country who have been brought in under international organization arrangements.

Mr. Alexander. On that, I think there should be some arrangement worked out, perhaps a modification of the headquarters site agreement, or a treaty, or a protocol, or a convention of some kind, which would require these international organizations to assume responsibility for the activities outside of the scope of their regular duties, of all persons they bring into this country, and would require them to get them out of the country whenever we feel that they are acting beyond the scope of their authority.

Mr. Arens. Well, now, is it your suggestion that this be done administratively, or is there some specific provision of the law you would recommend?

Mr. Alexander. The headquarters site agreement is, of course, a public law. It is Public Law 357. I believe, of the Eightieth Congress.

Mr. Arens. Has this situation been directed to the attention of the delegate of the United States to the United Nations?

Mr. Alexander. They are aware of the problem.

Mr. Davis. Is it a problem that is a concern in any respect of the respective embassies of those countries, the countries involved?

Mr. Alexander. No; the embassies, the legations, the diplomatic officers in this country, in Washington, are not concerned with it. Wherever we have anyone connected with a foreign embassy or legation, and he engages in activity of that kind, or objectionable activity of any kind outside the scope of his proper duties, we merely ask his government to recall him.

If we should have a chauffeur here of one of the embassies who kept constantly violating our traffic or other laws, we would ask his government to recall him, and out he goes.

Mr. Arens. That brings us to this other category, of persons in this general area; namely persons who are brought to this country to work in embassies or as representatives of foreign governments.

We would appreciate your observations with reference to that situation.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I have noticed a remarkably small number of people brought in to serve with diplomatic missions at Washington who had to be recalled because of activity against this Government, especially political activity.

Mr. Arens. Is there any number of people who can be brought in?

Mr. ALEXANDER. No, but it has to be within reason. If they wanted 10 butlers at the British Embassy, obviously we would want to know why they would want 10. It has to be within reason.

Mr. Arens. Is there any screening or any check on the character or the purpose of the person, as far as the United States Government and its interests are concerned, who is brought into this country as representative of a foreign government?

Mr. Alexander. Yes: there is a check into what we know of the individual from our records. And, as you know, in the case of ambassadors, for example, we may even decline to receive them. But in subordinate personnel cases, only occasionally do we say to a government, "We would prefer that you not send this person to the United States." We do make a check on them. Obviously, we don't have full or complete information on everybody they wish to appoint. And you can assume that all of the countries behind the iron curtain are going to fill up their missions with Communists, or Communist agents. You take that for granted. You do not assume that they will send persons not in sympathy with their governments.

Mr. Arens. Approximately how many persons would be in that category of Communists or Communist agents who would be representing countries behind the iron curtain, or Soviet Russia, or any country in the world who, under the present arrangements are permitted to be in this country on a technical diplomatic official status?

Mr. ALEXANDER. How many would there be?

Mr. Arens. Yes, sir.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Well, there would be a thousand or more, probably, for all the countries behind the iron curtain.

Mr. Arens. How many from Soviet Russia?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Not a great many from Soviet Russia. I believe we may have more people in our Embassy at Moscow than the Soviets have in their Embassy in the United States.

Mr. Arens. Is there reciprocity in that respect?

Mr. ALEXANDER. No. There is no parity in numbers. But there is always an inquiry as to the purpose. For instance, if the Soviets wanted to send over some-body to operate a filling station here, we would say, "No, we don't accept people for that. That is not within the scope of normal diplomatic activity."

Mr. Arens. Are those who are admitted under this diplomatic visa permitted freedom of movement in this country?

Mr. Alexander. Yes.

Mr. Arens, Are our representatives abroad accorded the same freedom of movement, so far as you know, as we accord representatives of other countries?

Mr. Alexander. I would say that that is not strictly on a par. Because our representatives abroad have no more freedom of opportunity to travel than the local population has. And that is limited, compared to our travel facilities and opportunities.

Mr. Arens. Would you say that by and large they have the same opportunities which are accorded other persons of that particular country?

Mr. Alexander. Yes; I would say they have probably the same opportunity to travel as the normal resident of the country; except that they are, of course, not allowed to see or go near any vital projects, or anything of that kind. And in this country, I think you will find that is pretty well true also; that some of the vital defense areas in this country are not open to visitors, whether they are diplomats or not.

Mr. Arens, Am I to gain any impression, from your observations on the diplomatic status of these people, that there is no diplomatic problem that you would like to comment on?

Mr. Alexander. I don't think there is any problem with respect to the members of the diplomatic missions; that is, the embassies and legations. Because we have more people in our embassies and legations in the iron curtain countries than those countries have in their missions in the United States.

There is one exception: In the case of the Soviet Union, they have an organization in the United States called Amtorg, the American Trading Organization, and they send people over here, and have been doing this for a number of years, to carry on trade relations with this country.

We have no corresponding mission in the Soviet Union. And I don't see any need for any.

[FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1948]

Mr. Arens. Mr. Alexander, yesterday some questions were asked and answers given respecting persons who, in your judgment, are subversive who have been brought into the United States, as I understand it, in the number of hundreds through international organizations.

I should be glad if you would kindly elaborate on that with end in view of telling us first of all whether these employees are brought in by the member governments of the international organizations or by the international organizations.

tions themselves; secondly, the nature of the employment of these persons; and third, what, in your opinion, they are actually doing which is subversive.

Mr. ALEXANDER. In the first place, the number of subversives that are brought in by delegations of foreign governments has not, to my knowledge, been great. They are attached to governmental delegations, and I suppose they are more or less controlled by the governmental delegates of those delegations.

Their activities have not, to my knowledge, been as objectionable, although some of them have been persons we would not ordinarily let into the country under any circumstances. Their actions while here as governmental delegation attachés probably have not been as objectionable as the other classes I am going to mention. We know they are employed by foreign governments and can expect them to act in line with their government's policy.

The second group is those who are employed by the organization itself, the central secretariat. They consist of persons who, in some instances, may have been refused visas for this country, and we would not grant them visas under any circumstances to permit them to come here on their own.

Mr. Arens. Generally speaking, why were they refused visas?

Mr. Alexander. Because they were believed to be subversive agents of foreign powers.

Mr. Arens. Subversive, from the standpoint of doing what type of activities? Mr. ALEXANDER. To my mind subversiveness means possible espionage, and so forth, and aliens who foment discord, engage in racial agitation, and other subversive activities contrary to the peace and good order of this country. They were brought in by the organization in good faith as employees of the central secretariat.

Mr. Arens. Who employed them?

Mr. Alexander. The central secretariat.

Mr. Arens. For what purpose were they employed?

Mr. Alexander. As clerks, translators, editors, experts of various kinds, advisers, producers, directors, and what have you.

Mr. Arens. Do you know the actual persons who did the employing or persons who did the employing?

Mr. Alexander. No.

Mr. Arens. What procedure was followed and is being followed with reference to documentation of these persons who are subversive and who have been brought in by the international organizations' secretariat?

Mr. Alexander. I think I had better go on to the third class, as it will touch on that point.

Mr. Arens. All right, sir.

Mr. Alexander. The third class of persons covered by the headquarters site agreement are not members of a governmental delegation, and they are not officers or employees of the organization itself, but the headquarters site agreement with the United Nations provides that in addition to the two categories I have mentioned, three other kind of persons, all aliens, may be brought into the country, or may be invited to come here, and that neither the Federal Government, nor the State governments, may place any impediments in the way of their movement to and from the headquarters site and foreign countries. And those classes consist of three categories: The representatives of foreign press, radio, film, publication, other information agencies abroad.

And you will recall that two of those cases involving Communist newspapermen got into the press in this country.

There are two more categories in this group. The representatives of nongovernmental organizations all over the world are next. Many of these are just Communist front or Communist controlled groups, but they must be permitted to come and have free access to and the free privilege to, pass to and from the headquarters district and its immediate vicinity and foreign countries.

The third group is composed of any other persons who may be invited by the United Nations to come to the headquarters site.

The headquarters site agreement was approved by Congress in Public Resolution 357, Eightieth Congress, with a reservation that nothing in it shall be considered as in any way diminishing, weakening, or abridging the right of the United States to safeguard its own security.

Mr. Arens. Then, if that provision is in the headquarters site agreement, public law, why have these people been admitted into the United States.

Mr. AEXANDER. Because there is a wide range of opinion as to whether or not the reservation by Congress requires only the exclusion of a person who is an immediate threat to our security, a direct and immediate threat, such as a person who would have to be locked up on sight, or whether or not it is so broad that you could exclude any person who ordinarily would be excludable on security grounds.

That part of the law is not clear. It should be clarified as soon as possible.

In fact my point about this whole thing is that there should be an early clarification of the law. I would like to know what is meant by the various provisions of the law. There are too many different shades of opinion as to what it means. It should be clarified as soon as possible.

Mr. Arens. Could you give us the essence of the language in this condition of the headquarters site agreement, again?

Mr. Alexander. The essence of the language is that nothing in this agreement shall be construed as in any way weakening, abridging, or diminishing the right of the United States to safeguard its own security. And something else is added: and completely to control the movement of persons to and from the headquarters district and foreign countries.

Mr. Arens. I understand from what your testimony was yesterday, and if I am wrong correct me, that it is known by the Visa Division of the State Department that hundreds of these persons who have been brought in are actual subversives and they have subversive files on them.

Mr. Alexander. I have estimated that there may be several hundred who are known or believed to be subversive.

Mr. Arens. And I understand from your testimony of yesterday that these persons have been and are now engaged in the United States in subversive activities.

Mr. Alexander. We do not know that. That is something we can only surmise, and that we hear from other sources, because we in the Visa Division do not have any agencies to cover their activities here.

Mr. Arens. What information do you have, if any, with reference to their activities in the United States which might be of a subversive nature?

Mr. Alexander. We had one person who was a newspaperman, and he was reported to be conferring with other persons here who were said to have been trained in terrorist activities at Moscow.

Mr. Arens. What was done about the case?

Mr. Alexander. What could we do? Until there is some overt act we cannot proceed against them. However, I think it unreasonable to assume that all Communists, whom I consider subversive, will quit being Communists while in the United States.

Mr. Arens. In what respect do you feel that this proviso in the headquarters site agreement law is inadequate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. I feel that the whole law should be clarified.

Mr. Arens. What clarification would you suggest?

Mr. Alexander. I would suggest that it be clarified in this sense: To require that the international organizations which bring into this country any person should be responsible for his activities here and should be responsible for getting him out of this country in the event he violates our hospitality, or in the event he has to be discharged by them, or he resigns, or otherwise terminates his connection with them.

Mr. Arens. What suggested changes in the law, if any, would you recommend in order to prohibit the entry into this country of that type of person?

Mr. Alexander. I do not know that you could go quite so far as to prohibit the entry entirely.

Mr. Arens. Why not?

Mr. Alexander. Because you would deny the international organization access to the individuals they may wish to have appear before it. I do not think the country which has the headquarters site should have the right to keep anybody that it does not like out of the country and prevent them from appearing before the organization.

Mr. Arens. Do you have any information which leads you to believe that these persons are brought into the country for the purpose of engaging in subversive activities?

Mr. Alexander. I do not think the organization brought them for that purpose. but I do think that they were using the organization as a front or cover to get into the country.

Mr. Arens. What documents do they have as their credentials in order to get them into the country?

Mr. Alexander. They usually have a foreign passport and a statement of their employment.

Mr. Arens. Is a visa issued to these persons?

Mr. Alexander. Yes.

Mr. Arens. What is the nature of the visa?

Mr. Alexander. A nonimmigrant visa, and those who come in the first category I mentioned; that is, the governmental delegations, and the second category, the staff and employees of the organization, are granted 3 (7) visas and Congress specifically exempted them from exclusion under the immigration laws.

Mr. Arens. What is a 3 (7) visa?

Mr. ALEXANDER. There are seven nonimmigrant categories, all mentioned in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924.

Mr. Arens. Officials of foreign governments?

Mr. Alexander. Yes. 3 (1) is foreign government officials, 3 (2) temporary visitors, 3 (3) aliens in transit, and so on down to 3 (7), which is international organization aliens.

Mr. ARENS. May I read 3 (7):

* is a representative of a foreign government in or to an international organization entitled to enjoy privileges, exemptions, and immunities, as an international organization under the International Organizations Immunity Act. or an alien officer or employee of such international organization and the family, attendants, servants, and employees of such a representative officer or employee.

Mr. Alexander. Those last three UN groups I mentioned, the representatives of the information agencies, press, radio, and film, and other writers, just staff writers in general, and the representatives of nongovernmental organizations, and the invitees; that is, persons invited by the organization to come to its headquarters for a conference or for any purpose whatsoever, they do not come under 3 (7). They come under 3 (2) as ordinary temporary visitors.

Mr. Arens. As I understand it, these persons concerning whom you have spoken, the subversives, are persons concerning whom the State Department has already accumulated a file which leads the State Department to believe that they are subversives before they are granted visas to come to this country.

Mr. Alexander. I would not put it exactly that way.

When you say "State Department," you cover a lot of people.

Mr. Arens. The Visa Division of the State Department. Mr. Alexander. That is right.

Mr. Arens. That statement I have just made is true?

Mr. ALEXANDER. That is true.

Mr. Arens. But, nevertheless and notwithstanding the fact that the Visa Division of the State Department has a file which leads the Visa Division of the State Department to conclude that these persons are known subversives, they have been issued visas and have been admitted into the United States?

Mr. Alexander. That is right, because, as I have already stated, the law does not exclude them.

Mr. Arens. What is the number of these persons, your best judgment as to the number of these persons who are or have been known to be subersives but have been issued visas by the Visa Division of the State Department to come to the United States?

Mr. ALEXANDER. They were issued visas by the consular officers abroad, not by the Visa Division including in pursuant of the law, including headquarters site agreement.

Mr. Arens. Yes.

Mr. Alexander. As I said yesterday, I think there are several hundred of them. I have seen enough cases to indicate that there must be that many.

Mr. Arens. Is there some individual or unit of the Visa Division charged with the responsibilty of dealing with this specific problem?

Mr. Alexander. No.

Mr. Arens. Who, in general, is dealing with it?

Mr. ALEXANDER. I suppose the FBI after they get here. I do not know.

Mr. Arens. What efforts have been made by the officials of the Visa Division of the Department of State to deal with the problem?

Mr. ALEXANDER. We take the position that this should be thoroughly considered with a view to recommending possible changes in the law, and that with that purpose in mind, a sort of ad hoc committee has been formed down there in the Department which is considering this problem.

And whether or not the Department itself will have some recommendation to make remains to be seen.

Mr. Arens. Who has formed this committee?

Mr. ALEXANDER. It was formed by the executive officers of the Department, is composed of representatives of the political divisions, and the office which has to do with the international organizations, the Visa Division, and the Security Division.

Mr. Arens. Do you know the members of the committee?

Mr. ALEXANDER. No; not offhand.

Mr. Arens. Do you know the chairman of the committee?

Mr. ALEXANDER. The chairman of the committee is General Snow, who is in the legal adviser's office.

Mr. Arens. And he would be cognizant of this problem and be in a position to give us information on it?

Mr. Alexander. That is right. And I have been appointed chairman of the subcommittee to work out one phase of this problem, and that has to do with the question of excludability of persons who are coming in under 3 (2). Remember now, those first two categories are already exempted by Congress, but in the 3 (2) classes, that is, the last three groups I mentioned. The question is how far we can go, how far we have to go, and what is really the problem of maintaining our security here and what is consistent with the proper functioning of these organizations, and whether or not legislation is needed, and so forth.

Mr. Arens. Have you prepared any specific proposals for changes in the law in order to meet this problem?

Mr. Alexander. Not yet.

Mr. Arens. Do you propose to do so?

Mr. ALEXANDER. We do not know what conclusion may be reached regarding this.

Mr. Arens. You feel that something should be done, however?

Mr. ALEXANDER. There is a general feeling that the security of the United States requires that something be done.

If we cannot work out a satisfactory arrangement with these international organizations so that they can assume responsibility for the people they bring in, just as any foreign government assumes responsibility for the officers which it sends to this country, something else ought to be done.

Mr. Arens. I wish you would elaborate on that a little bit. I do not quite understand what difference it makes as to who assumes the responsibility.

It occurs to me the thing we are primarily interested in is that these people do not gain admission to the United States, or if they do, are permitted only to testify or perform some service for the organization and then are given their leave.

Mr. Alexander. Of course, theoretically, that is all right. But, as a practical matter, take the United Nations, for example, with its headquarters site in the middle of Manhattan, or at least in the metropolitan area of New York. How you can confine a person to traveling only to the headquarters site, in delivering his message or completing his business, and then leaving the country, is a problem.

Mr. Arens. Are these persons permitted to remain in the United States so long as they are on the employee's roll of the United Nations Organization?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes.

Mr. ARENS. That could be ad infinitum?

Mr. ALEXANDER. That is right.

Mr. Arens. Has this problem been discussed with the secretariat of the United Nations?

Mr. Alexander. Only in one or two indivdual cases.

Mr. Arens. Do you know whether or not it has been taken up with our delegate to the United Nations, Senator Austin?

Mr. Alexander. We have had some discussions with them on it, and the whole matter has been explored from that end, our end, and the security end.

It is a serious problem. I have brought this to your attention because you are interested in the problems we have and this is one of the greatest and most pressing among them.

Mr. Arens. Will you be so kind as to keep us apprised in the course of the next several weeks or months of any specific recommendations which develop as to both changes in the law or regulations so as to meet this problem.

Mr. ALEXANDER. All right.

Mr. Arens. Is there anything else that you would like to say on this problem, Mr. Alexander?

A202 COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES IN ALIEN AND NATIONAL GROUPS

Mr. ALEXANDER. I do not think so. I think I have given you an idea of what the problem is and what we are faced with.

Mr. Arens. One other question.

What information do you have with reference to the subversive activities of these persons after they have arrived in the United States?

Mr. Alexander. As I say, in one or two instances, we have some indication of subversive activity. I do not have the full reports on the people.

I mentioned the case of a person who was said to have been trained in terrorist duties in Moscow and who was conferring with a UN correspondent representing a foreign newspaper here, and who may have been conferring with other persons in the spread of Communist propaganda and leaflets and pamphlets, and so forth and so on.

Mr. Arens. Has this problem been directed to the attention of the House

Un-American Activities Committee?

Mr. ALEXANDER. I do not think so. At least I have not brought it to their attention.

Mr. Arens. Has it been directed to the attention of the Federal Bureau of Investigation?

Mr. Alexander. I think they know all about it.
